DISCUSS MEANS OF BOLSTERING CREDIT IN U. S.

Senate Committee Considers Cause of Stock Market Crash in 1929
DEBATE POSSIBLE LAW
New York Banker Thinks It Difficult to Check
Call Loans

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1931, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—(CPA)—Looking
retrospectively at events leading up to the stock market crash of October, 1929, the senate committee headed by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Democrat, sat down with Charles E.
Mitchell, chairman of the board of the National City bank of New York and talked over informally what might have been done and what changes in the Federal Reserve act might yet be made to adjust the many factors in the nation's credit machinery.

Mr. Mitchell declared at the outset that he believed the Federal Reserve act to be one of the most constructive pieces of legislation in recent years and that it had proved itself of great benefit to the country. He said that it was natural that from time to time there should be discussion of changes in the evolution of the Federal Reserve system as circumstances developed and that he was ready to furnish the committee with all the information at his disposal and to give the benefit of his experience as a director of the F. ederal Reserve bank in New York in studying the operations of the Federal Reserve system.

In attendance at the hearing were Eugene Meyer, governor of the reserve board, and Adolph C. Miller, member of the Federal Reserve board since its inception.

Asks About Loans
Mr. Glass sought by his questions to ascertain just what effect the lending of money in the call money market by corporations had on the general credit structure and asked Mr. Mitchell if he didn't think the banks should have refused to make call loans when it appeared that legitimate business and commerce was being adversely affected. The New York banker declared that if he could think of a way to curtail such lending he would be glad to suggest it but that if the banks did not make
"loans for the account of others"

Senate Passes Ice Fishing Bill; Sends It To Assembly

Two Tax Measures Introduced in Lower House by Groves
Madison—(P)—Studded with amendments, the bill to permit ice fishing until Jan. 1, 1932, designed as an emergency measure to provide aid to unemployment, was passed by the senate today and immediately
messaged to the assembly.

Under the bill as it left the upper house, all waters in nine counties and some lakes and rivers in 10
other counties will be thrown open to ice fishermen. The bill limits to three the number of fish lines which may be used by each person.

While the senate debated ice fishing, the assembly received two tax measures. Assemblyman Harold Groves, Madison, introduced a bill providing for taxation of public utili-

RUM RUNNER CREW FOUND NOT GUILTY

Testify They Knew Nothing About Nature of Vessel's Cargo

Milwaukee—(P)—On their testimony that they knew nothing of the cargo, five members of the crew of the Amherstberg 18, steam tug which was caught running Canadian alcohol and beer off Plum Island, near Green Bay, Wis., were found not guilty in federal court here today.

The men testified they signed with the boat to help transport package freight on the Great Lakes, at Goderich, Ont. They could not identify the captain, chief engineer and another man, who left the boat in a speed boat it had been towing,
some time before it reached Plum Island.

The sailors, one of whom was not tried, having forfeited their bonds were Brian Barwick, Albert Williams, Frank Clark, Harry Slater and Edwin Benson. Al Gorman forfeited his bond. They were charged with conspiracy to smuggle illegal goods into the United States. Several hundred bottles of ale and beer
were taken from the Amherstberg 18 and the craft was confiscated by the government.

NEENAH MEN NABBED FOR CHICKEN THEFT

Oshkosh—(P)—For the second time in the few weeks since the sheriff advised farmers to protect their chicken coops with buzzer alarms, two men were arrested by a farmer last night when they raided his place.

Kimball Larson, farmer near here,
was awakened by the buzzer in his bedroom last night. He and his farm hand, both armed, went to the hen house and there surprised his brother-in-law, Earl Christianson, and Edwin Crossman, both of Neenah. The two pleaded guilty today and will be sentenced Saturday.

POLICE HUNTING FOR MISSING OSHKOSH MAN

Oshkosh—(P)—Fearing her husband has met with foul play because he carried nearly $200 intended for payment of taxes Monday, Mrs. Victor Wolff today asked police to search for her husband. He has not been seen since he was last seen in his car on Main-st Saturday evening, preparing to go to a theatre. Mrs. Wolff told police she doubted if he had voluntarily disappeared.

Rocky Mountain Region Shuts Out Wintry Reign

Washington—(P)—The skating isn't so good this winter, but coal fires are smaller, because there is a lot of heavy air over the Rocky Mountains that refuses to move.

This is one of the warmest and driest winters in a long time, says
C. L. Mitchell, chief forecaster of the United States Weather bureau, for the reason that an area of high pressure has been hanging over the vicinity of Utah and Idaho since the middle of November.

This area of dense, heavy air, Mitchell explained today, keeps the cold air of the Arctic regions away from most of the United States as effectively as a new overcoat. Winds that ordinarily would sweep down from the north and chill the whole country are turned aside by the high pressure area and strike
only New England, which is the only section to have normally cold weather
this winter.

A high pressure area is a sort of wave crest in the sea of atmosphere

SAYS RED CROSS AND LOCAL AID MEETING NEEDS

Bills in Congress Strike at Very Root of Self-gov- ernment, He Avers

Washington—(P)—President Hoover
today opposed the proposed appropriations for relief as measures which would strike at the very root of self-government.

While the president expressed confidence that the Red Cross together with local aid could take care of both the drought and unemployment situations, he said he was willing to pledge himself to ask the aid of every resource of the federal government in the event other means should fail.

The president expressed his views personally at the regular semi-weekly press conference.

President Hoover said the present problem did not present a question so much as to whether people would go hungry or cold but rather a question of the best method of preventing hunger and cold.

The friendliness and the charity of the American people, he said, can be relied upon to take care of fellow citizens in distress.

He emphasized there is a practical problem involved, namely that the help now being extended by agencies and neighbors of those in need throughout the country is many times larger than that of any fund yet proposed.

His views were given after he and Senator Watson, the Republican leader, had discussed the legislative situation at a White House breakfast.

The president said he had received reports only today that no one is going hungry or need go hungry or cold.

His Own Record
Mr. Hoover said he had spent much of his life in fighting human hardship both in this country and abroad and that he did not believe he could be accused of a lack of human sympathy.

He declared he would no more see starvation occurring among the people of this country than would any senator or representative.

One of the major objections advanced by him against the method of aid proposed by some members of congress was that it would strike at the roots of the system of self-help which he said was a major principle of this country.

He quoted President Cleveland to the effect that while the people should support the government, the government should not support the people.

He then pointed out that the Red Cross has accepted full responsibility for relief of the present distress.

He noted the organization also had refused to accept administration of the pending $25,000,000 relief appropriation.

Meanwhile in the senate, Democratic Leader Robinson contended
there had been a "display of indifference of inefficiency" in the disposition of emergency relief measures which the senate "almost unanimously recognizes as necessary."

The Arkansas said it was "certainly inexplicable" that the six point Democratic relief program had not been given more serious and prompt consideration.

"Indecision, hesitation and indifference," he said, "merely defers a day when some decisive action must be taken or the most serious results accepted."

The Democratic chief pointed out that the only relief measures adopted so far were the emergency public works building program and the drought seed loan measure.

He added, however, that while the

A. B. TURNBULL NEW PRESIDENT OF POST PUB. CO.

Following the annual meeting of the Post Publishing Co. held yesterday in the offices of the Appleton Post-Crescent, H. L. Davis, general manager of the Post-Crescent announced that A. B.
Turnbull was named president of the company, succeeding the late John K. Kline; Victor I. Minnahan became treasurer and editor and Mr. Davis secretary and general manager. John R. Riedl, city editor for many years, becomes managing editor and Don R. Morris succeeds Mr. Riedl as city editor.

The capital of the Post Publishing Co. was increased, all of which was subscribed by the existing stockholders, as a part of the plan of extension and enlargement which has been in contemplation for some time and which includes the erection of a completely modern plant with its equipment. A definite time for commencement of building operations was not fixed upon.

LENNART UNPERTURBED OVER LOSS OF TITLE

Stockholm, Sweden—(P)—Unperturbed by King Gustave's refusal to sanction his marriage to a commoner, youthful Prince Lennart proceeded today with the plans for his wedding to Fraulein Karin Nissvan, daughter of a Swedish Dutch industrialist.

To interviewers he seemed much more concerned that his fiancée was losing ill of influenza at his father's home than that to carry out his purpose he will have to surrender his principally ranking and titles and become plain Mr. Lennart Wilhelmson.

"What does the rank of prince really mean these days in Germany, where we are going to settle?" he asked, adding that he would become a German agriculturalist, but keep his Swedish heart. They hope to make their home, he said, at Malma-Carle, near Lake Constantine.

With Prince Lennart, who is the son of Prince William, crown prince of Sweden, will pass his rights of succession to the throne by marriage against the king's will, the honorary title of count or prince probably will be bestowed upon him.

Each Indian In Tribe May Receive $50

Schneider Bill Reported Fa- vorably by Committee of House

BY RUDY A. BLACK (Washington Bureau of Post-Crescent)
Washington—Each member of the Menominee tribe will receive $50, aggregating some $92,000 for the whole tribe, if congress passes the Schneider bill reported favorably today by the house of representatives committee on Indian affairs with the approval of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton, introduced the bill providing for a $100 per capita payment but the committee reduced it to $50 on recommendation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

The Menominees got a per capita payment of $50 in 1924, aggregating $52,000; one of $100 in 1926, aggregating $191,200; one of $200 in 1928, aggregating $388,600, and one of $100 in 1929, aggregating $195,- 100, the bureau says.

The tribal funds now amount to $1,390,997 in the log fund bearing 5 per cent interest, and $348,014 in the 4 per cent fund.

It is expected that the house will take up this bill tomorrow at the call of the committee on Indian affairs.

CANNON HOBBOLES TO CHURCH PROBE

Bishop Appears on Crutches to Reply to Charges Filed Against Him

Washington—(P)—Bishop Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, today hobbled into the Mount Methodist church on crutches to face charge. The doors were locked immediately.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, who has charge of the proceedings, sent word to reporters by a uniformed policeman, who was standing guard at a side door that he would see them.

He informed them "this is an ecclesiastical proceeding carried on as a church law prescribes and nothing will be given to the public until it is over. When a conclusion is reached, I will give out the results as well as the names of the men who are conducting the hearings."

He then stepped back into the church. The door was closed and the policeman mounted guard.

Cannon is facing charges filed by four prominent pastors of the church.
What the charges contain has never been disclosed.

The bishop evaded reporters and photographers by entering a basement door at the rear of the church.
That door also was locked immediately.

CRAMTON REPLIES TO CHARGES IN HOUSE
Washington—(P)—The house was thrown into an uproar today when Representative Cramton of Michigan, declared that anybody in the senate who charged he was seeking a federal job "is a plain, unadulterated liar."

Efforts had been made by Representative Traynor of Massachusetts, and Cramton to answer assertions by Senator Caraway of Arkansas, and Senator Borah of Idaho, in the senate yesterday against Cramton and Majority Leader Tilson
when the turmoil began.

Rising to a point of personal privilege, but adhering to the house
rules of not mentioning names,
Cramton made his "liar" declaration.

MALACHI RYAN WINS HONOR AS FARMER LEADER

Combined Locks Resident Recognized for His Out- standing Work

Malachi Ryan president of the village of Combined Locks and prominent for many years as a progressive farmer was one of the five persons honored last night by the University of Wisconsin for outstanding work in agricultural and home-building fields. The five received certificates of recognition at the annual Farm and Home week now in progress, at the state capital.

The other four are Mrs. Nora Burt Dunlap Savoy III; Cornelius Olson,
Taylor county, Wis.; Louis Paul Wiegand, Manitowoc county; Edgar Wiley Taylor, LaGrange, Walworth county.

Mr. Ryan was the second Outagamie county resident to receive the recognition, the first being the late W. C. Jamison of Greenville who was honored in 1922.

Long a Leader
Mr. Ryan has been a leader in Outagamie county agricultural circles for more than a quarter of a century. He is a member of the county agricultural committee and for years advocated the appointment of a county agricultural agent and since the appointment of that official has sought to further his work.

Mr. Ryan's interest in progressive farming dates back at least thirty years when he was the first farmer
in this county to succeed in raising alfalfa. He harvested a crop in 1896 and his annual crop since then has averaged five tons per acre.

Last year on four acres he raised ten tons of alfalfa hay as well as a crop and 27 bushels of seed as the second crop.

The second silo in the town of Duchanan was erected on the Ryan farm which is the home of a herd of 24 registered Holstein cattle. Mr.
Ryan started in 1890 with pure bred Shorthorn cattle but in 1896 changed to pure bred Holsteins. The 100 acre farm which he operates in

REPORT POWER BOARD NAMES BACK TO SENATE

Washington—(P)—The senate industrial commerce committee today reported back to the senate with out recommendation the nominations of the 3 members of the power commission whose names President Hoover has refused to return to the senate.

The action was unanimous. It was a preliminary move to have the senate formally reject the nominations of the three commissioners, in order to strengthen its court test of the president's authority to retain the commissioners in office.

The nominations were of Chairman Smith and Commissioners Gar-saud and Draper.

REPORT FAVORABLY ON BUILDING WAGE BILL

Washington—(P)—The senate
manufactures committee today ordered a favorable report of the Davis
bill requiring government contractors to pay workers up to the prevailing local wage scale.

The measure was introduced by Senator Davis, Republican of Pennsylvania, a former secretary of labor. It was introduced by Secretary Daak, his successor in the Labor post and by Assistant Secretary Heath of the treasury.

BULLETIN

Washington—(P)—The senate
today sidetracked the Howell
bill to establish a stricter prohibition enforcement law for the District of Columbia, to consider the independent offices appropriation bill.

Hines Issues Warning On Veterans' Bonus Measure

Washington—(P)—The agitation
over veterans' cash payment legislation which reached fever today before senate and house committee.

A warning that "we have reached a point in connection with veterans relief where we must take serious consideration to where we are going"
was laid before the senate today by the committee on Veterans' Affairs.

At the other end of the Capitol, Representative Garner of Texas, the minority leader, called attention to "unfounded" "misstatements" for Secretary Wilson's economic views as the basis for means committee bill H.
R. 10000, presented by the Principal Life Insurance company, to testify on plans to cash adjusted compensation certificates.

General Hines cited a number of "public opinion" polls against relief measures for disabled

New Battles Are Forecast In Reichstag

Berlin—(P)—The Reichstag, convening here this afternoon after the Christmas recess maneuvered by Chancellor Bruening against the wishes of his opposition, faced a session almost certain to be marked by a contest between two powerful German elements.

One of these, and that which at present is in the saddle, is led by the imperialistic Bruening, who with his followers in the chamber are convinced that Germany's best interests may be worked out in accordance with the Weimar or republican constitution.

The other element is divided against itself, one wing, the Fascists seeking a dictatorship built around a single man, and the other wing composed of the Communists, hoping for a dictatorship of the proletariat.

Chancellor Bruening has the full support of his Centrist party and perhaps of the Bavarian People's party,
but he is not certain that he can also count upon continuance of the passive or active aid of the Social Democrats, numerically the strongest party in the Reichstag.

The Agrarian Landvolk party's 18 members are clamoring for long-promised assistance to farmers, while the Folk's party's 30 members are vehemently demanding 300,000,000
marks further cuts in budget expenditures without indicating where and how these savings are to be erected.

The test of strength will not come today. When it is reached the chancellor will hold the trump card—an order from President von Hindenburg for dissolution of the Reichstag and calling of new elections after 90 days with an ad interim period of government by decree.

DAISY DE BOE FAILS IN PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL

Los Angeles—(P)—Only a written plea for mercy by Clara Dow and a jury's recommendation for leniency stood today between penitentiary walls and Daisy De Boe, convicted of the theft of $323 from the film red-head.

The slim, blonde Daisy, who until Hollywood's recent real life thriller was the film flapper's secretary and pal, saw her hope for a new trial go pluming in Superior Judge William Doran's court yesterday.

A plea for probation instead of a one-to-ten-year sentence for the grand theft conviction was entered by Daisy's counsel, William Boerne, when the plea for a new trial was denied.

Among the angles which Judge Doran may hold of prime importance in considering the probation plea before giving a decision next Tuesday, is a delicately scented note from Actress Dow to the district attorney.

1,000 INJURED AS SEAPORT IS LEFT IN RUINS

Shocks Continue in District —Disaster Worst in Island's History

FLAMES ADD TO HAVOC

British Warships Help Establish Relief Stations for Stricken People

Wellington, New Zealand (Wednesday)—(P)—Devastating earth shocks falling like the blows of a sledge hammer upon the seaport of Napier, North Island, New Zealand, have left that city a tangled mass
of ruins through which fires blazed furiously late Tuesday night.

Police estimated the number of earthquake dead in the city of Napier at about 100 and the number of injured at about one thousand.

Dressing stations had been established throughout the devastated district but more nurses were badly needed, for new casualties were constantly being reported.

It was feared that 14 boys had been killed in the collapse of a building connected with a school at Napier.

The commander of H. M. S. Veronica, who organized the first relief party shortly after the first quake struck early yesterday morning, radioed this afternoon that the shocks were continuing and that the people of the devastated district were stunned by this the greatest disaster which ever befell New Zealand.

Bluff hill, a cliff on the outskirts of Napier fell in upon itself, carrying with it the houses built along its slopes. Fires broke out simultaneously in many places, but the quake had wrecked a water supply system and firemen were powerless
to cope with the conflagration.

Buildings Destroyed
"I have just returned from a complete inspection of this town," the commander's message from Napier said. "Practically every stone building has been destroyed and in many cases fires are blazing furiously.

"Hundreds of frame buildings have been wrecked because the water supply has failed. We have been unable to cope with the flames."

"I have organized a food depot and my crew are policing the streets. We are setting up an X-ray station for many hundreds have been injured.

"All the destitute women and children have been aboard the Veronica.

"The earth shocks are still occurring and I have learned that many people were killed while they were sitting in their parked automobiles.
The population is quiet. There is no disorder among them and they seem to be stunned by the magnitude of this disaster."

The business area of the town of Hastings, 12 miles southwest of Napier, was devastated by the quake
and a conflagration which followed.

Several persons were killed in the collapse of the Roach building, and five women died when an apartment house fell in about them. At Hastings the death toll will probably be more than 100.

Napier, a city of about 15,000 on Hawkes bay, was believed to have been the heaviest sufferer. Rescue was on the way but there had been no definite reports in several hours.
It was believed the death toll there also would pass 100.

Scores were injured when buildings collapsed in the streets and thousands were left homeless. The fires which broke out simultaneously
in many places were still raging
this afternoon.

The fire spread to the Napier hospital nurses home, which collapsed, killing several patients and nurses.

There were 21 known dead in Hastings. Smaller townships in the vicinity suffered accordingly.

The quakes were reported continuing late tonight and hundreds arranged to sleep in the open. All communications with the outside was severed excepting radio service, which delivered first reports of the disaster.

Relief was being rushed from all available places by warship, train and airplane.

Warships Bring Help
H. M. S. Veronica, in the harbor
at Napier, assumed charge of relief work there, landing its entire crew,
and upon its urgent request the warships Diamond and Dunedin left Auckland with doctors, nurses and medical supplies for the stricken city. The government also dispatched doctors and nurses from other places outside the devastated area to the villages and towns around Napier and Hastings.

Illinois Officers Hunt Slayers Of Three At East St. Louis

KILLERS LEAVE FEW CLEWS AT MURDER SCENE

Bodies Found Near Granite City—Slayings Occurred Early Sunday

East St. Louis, Ill.—(AP)—Investigators today strove to sort tangible clues from a maze of rumors in their effort to pierce the mystery surrounding the slaying of three men, one of them a well-known business man, apparently by machine guns.

The bodies, each containing several bullet wounds, were found in Lovers' lane, three miles east of Granite City, late yesterday. Subsequent investigation fixed the scene of the triple slaying at 330-A E. Broadway, East St. Louis, and the time early Sunday morning. The place is said to be a hideaway for gangsters.

St. Louis police said last night two of the victims were J. P. Carroll, connected lately with the operation of a handbook store, and Theodore Kaminski, 24, also of St. Louis, a former chauffeur, recently had been engaged in the East St. Louis "kidnaping racket." The third victim was David Hoffman, 39, who conducted a woman's apparel store and pawnshop here, and is said to have sold gangsters guns at times. Later Sheriff Jerome Murnie of St. Louis said he was considering as a possible motive the reputed connection of Carroll and Kaminski with a kidnaping ring.

Friends of Adam (Mulepole) Fritz, wealthy proprietor of east side handbook establishments, said the description of Kaminski, fitted that of the driver of the motor car in which Fritz was kidnapped a year ago, and that the description of Carroll tallied with that of the kidnap gang leader.

Possible Kidnap Ring
Charles W. Pershall, wealthy Granite City grocer and banker, who was abducted last February, was ill of influenza today, but his wife said he would be anxious to try to identify the slain men as soon as his health would permit.

Four persons were under arrest today in connection with the triple slaying, but authorities were not hopeful of obtaining important information from any of them. The shooting occurred in "Wide-Open" Smith's sparsely furnished flat at 330-A E. Broadway, in which police found much evidence of the assassination. A door had been torn from its hinges, sawed and chopped to pieces and thrust into a coal stove, apparently to destroy evidence. A piece of it remained unburned.

Near where the door had been removed were many bullet holes in the wall, where the machine gun slugs had gone astray of their targets. Cartridges, some exploded and some unexploded, were on the floor. More than 100 quarts of beer were found in the place. A desk of cards and a card table were found, but no other signs of gambling.

While officers were there, telephone calls were received from a man and a woman, who asked for Carl Shelton, notorious east side gangster, and Tommy Hayes, St. Louis gunman.

Carroll, a former member of the St. Louis police department, had been arrested 24 times, but never convicted. Kaminski had been arrested three times. A charge of carrying concealed weapons was pending against him.

Inquests were held last night. Three juries merely reported the men had been slain by unknown persons.

SEES BANKRUPTCY FOR PROTESTANTISM

Episcopal Bishop Says World Swinging to Catholic Faith and Order

Chicago — (AP) — The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, installed today as Episcopal bishop of the Chicago diocese, said Protestantism is "threatened with complete bankruptcy" but added that the whole Christian world was "swinging back to the center of the Catholic faith and order and worship."

"Protestantism has wavered in the unshaken verities of a moral universe," he said in his charge to the 94th convention of the diocese. "The religious order is emerging from a chaos of wild speculation and unbridled license."

"Modern science is italicizing the sanity and solidity of the great religious convictions of the race," he said.

In addressing the clergy he said, "you are supposed to have the learning of a scholar, the logic of a lawyer, the penetrating energy of a family doctor, the equanimity of an artist, the wisdom of a financier, the popularity of a politician and the sanctity of a saint—all for the salary of an apartment house janitor."

The Rev. Duncan H. Brown, dean of St. James' cathedral here, installed the new bishop. He succeeded the late Bishop S. M. Griswold.

Hits Disarmament

Peace can be assured this country only by preparedness, according to Col. Roy F. Farrand, commander of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion, who spoke Monday night at the Lions club meeting at Conway hotel. However, he commended efforts to promote peace by treaties, leagues and courts.

LA CROSSE MAN NAMED MEMBER OF REGENT BODY

Dr. Gunnar Gundersen Succeeds Father on U. of Wisconsin's Board

Madison—(AP)—Succeeding his father to the position, Dr. Gunnar Gundersen, LaCrosse, was named a member of the University of Wisconsin board of Regents today by Gov. Philip F. LaFollette. His father is Dr. Adolph Gundersen, also of LaCrosse.

The new regent will be the youngest man on the board, being 33 years old. He was educated in the LaCrosse public schools, attended Froyer gymnasium in Oslo, Norway, and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1917. He took his medicine course at the college of physicians and surgeons, Columbia university, New York, graduating in 1920.

Dr. Gundersen has practiced in LaCrosse since graduation, and was married in 1923. He is the father of four children.

All regents are appointed for six-year terms. The joint finance committee, the only other legislative body meeting yesterday, heard the budget requests of 14 departments. C. F. Schwenker, state banking commissioner, asked for an additional $25,000 for the state banking department's budget of $147,000.

At the request of the committee, Mr. Schwenker will draft a bill intended to raise about $25,000 annually in special bank and trust company fees. The measure would follow the recommendations of Gov. LaFollette who urged that individuals and corporations receiving special services from the department should pay for them.

Other departments which were represented at the hearing and which asked no increase in the budgets were the department of agriculture and markets, board of vocational education, department of public instruction, memorial hall, state treasurer, bar examiners, agricultural experiment association, dairymen's association, stock breeders association, horticultural society, cheesemakers association, bureau of personnel and revisors of statutes.

KEEP PREPARED FOR WAR, SAYS LEGION LEADER

Preparedness Alone Will Preserve Peace, Col. Roy F. Farrand Claims

Commending all the efforts that have been and are being made to promote the cause of world peace by treaties, leagues and courts, Col. Roy F. Farrand, commander of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion and president of St. John Military academy at Delafield, yesterday challenged any one to show him "where in the history of the world, peace has ever been the reward of unpreparedness." Col. Farrand spoke at the weekly meeting of the Lions club at Conway hotel.

"History is full of instances where in a state of weakness and unpreparedness has led to war and where in a nation that was unprepared has either met defeat or has purchased an ultimate victory at such terrible cost in lives and treasure as to be staggering to contemplate," he said.

Col. Farrand scathingly condemned the efforts that are being made by pacifists to prohibit military training in schools and colleges and cited the experience of history to prove his assertion that a nation prepared for war has been able to maintain peace because of its preparedness.

"Switzerland, with every male citizen a trained soldier, has made peace for 150 years, while in that same period the United States, the most unprepared nation upon the face of the earth, excepting only China, has had six major contests."

Col. Farrand denies the charge that Germany's preparedness was responsible for the World war by declaring that that country's preparedness was the effect, not the cause, of a mistaken philosophy that had prevailed that country for two generations.

But if England had been as well prepared for war as Germany was there never would have been a world war, the colonel stated.

While Col. Farrand commended the efforts that are being made to prevent wars by treaties he said he could place little reliance upon international agreements in the future because they have failed to accomplish their purposes in the past, and he cited the invasion of Belgium as an example of the futility of a treaty when a nation is determined to act with hostile intent.

"War still has, unfortunately, a tremendous romantic appeal for the untrained youth, but if the romance is taken out of it and the appeal has gone, it will not be so alluring. Col. Farrand stated in continuing his discussion of military training in schools.

"If the people who endeavor to bring about permanent peace by the prohibition of military training were better psychologists, they would realize that their very strictures upon military training add to its attractions for the vigorous, virile youth to whom it is denied. Make it commonplace and you destroy its power to attract," he declared.

Unrest in Europe
Col. Farrand denied the statements of pacifists that the entire world is at last at rest by declaring that already there is unrest in Europe.

"Old hatreds are continuously flaming up, old jealousies are stirred and out of Russia come prophets and propaganda preaching pacifism on the one hand and preparedness for their world revolutions on the other," he said. "In the Orient the Chinese dragon is stirring from its thousand years of sleep. India is being roused by its waking struggles, and Japan, silent and watchful, is still smarting under what she considers our affront to her national pride in our tactless handling of the exclusion law."

"In the face of such a situation, with all Europe an armed camp and with our organized forces ranking with those of Germany and Turkey, with potential enemies brought so close to speak, thousands of miles nearer our shores by the increase in transportation facilities, and lastly with the United States in such a position among the nations of the world as to make it peculiarly the object of

Quits Madison Commerce Body For Utility Stand

Madison — (AP) — Alfred T. Rogers, law partner of Gov. Philip LaFollette and also a partner of the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette for many years, today released a letter he has sent to the Madison Association of Commerce submitting his resignation because of the organization's fight on the utility program in the legislature.

He objected to the appearance of Paul E. Stark, Madison real estate man and director of the association of commerce, before a committee last week and opposed the utility program in the name of the organization.

The letter, addressed to Alvin E. Gillett, secretary, said:

"Will you please present to your board of directors my withdrawal from the Madison Association of Commerce?"

"On the issues fought out in the last state campaign, the voters of Madison, by a majority of 3,000 in the primary and 6,000 in the election, expressed themselves as favoring a program which must, ultimately, mean a reduction of light, power and gas costs to the homes and industries of this city. The responsible officers of our association of

GARBAGE DISPOSAL STILL PLAQUING COUNCIL MEETING

Hog Feeding, Incineration or Just Nothing Are Possibilities

For the umpteenth time in six months, council discussion Wednesday night will revolve around the question of garbage disposal. The report of the hog-feeding committee, which has been discussing methods of garbage disposal other than by incineration during the past two weeks, probably will serve as a cue for another stage call for incinerator arguments.

As the matter now stands there seem to be three possibilities; construction of an incinerator, a city contract with a hog farm, or a continuance of the present method of private collection, with regulation by city ordinance. There is now $65,000 in the 1931 budget for the construction of an incinerator, but there is some sentiment in the council toward using this money to chop down Appleton's indebtedness, and continuing with the present method of private disposal of garbage until theory is in a better position to handle the matter. This plan probably will be embodied in the report of the hog-feeding committee.

The annual salary ordinance will be passed at the Wednesday night meeting. There will be no change in the salaries of elective officials, but there is some discussion of changes in the remuneration of some city employees.

The proposed change in the milk ordinance, making the publication of the monthly milk test optional with the board of health, will be discussed again. The matter was left undecided at the last meeting.

COMMITTEE TO MEET
The county board building and grounds committee will meet Thursday afternoon at the courthouse, according to John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Bills will be allowed.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any drugstore can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

LEAGUE PLANS TESTIMONY ON LEVEL HEARING

Executive Committee to Meet Thursday Night at Kaukauna

Following the announcement from Washington Monday that an open hearing will be held by the war engineers before the level of lake Winnebago is restored to 214 inches, Mayor B. W. Fargo, president of the newly organized Fox River Valley League of Municipalities, said the league will immediately prepare to present reasons for desiring the higher level. The date of the hearing has not yet been selected.

The executive committee of the new organization, composed of the mayors and village presidents of communities along the river, will meet at Kaukauna Thursday evening to perfect the organization. Action pertaining to the hearing also will be taken.

Committee members include Mayor George Sande of Neenah, Mayor N. G. Remmel of Menasha, Mayor John Goodland, Jr., of Appleton, President Anton Jansen of Little Chute, President Joseph Dierfler of Kimberly, President Malachi Ryan of Combined Locks, President J. Besides taking action on the water level, the committee will discuss purposes of the organization. Formation of the new league was a result of a meeting called at Kaukauna some time ago by Mayor Fargo to discuss restoration of the old level.

Present Graff Trophy To Oney Johnston Post Of American Legion

VETERANS ARE COMMENDED BY STATE LEADER

Appleton Group Leads in Quantity and Quality, Says Col. Roy Farrand

The largest American Legion post in the state, Oney Johnston post of Appleton, last night formally received the Marshall C. Graff trophy at the February meeting at Elk hall. The presentation was made by Col. Roy F. Farrand, Delafield, state commander of the American Legion.

The trophy, offered the first time this year by Marshall C. Graff, Appleton, immediate past state commander, and a national committee, is emblematic of the largest membership reported at the annual mid-winter conference. Although a traveling trophy, it will become the permanent possession of the post winning it three times.

In presenting the trophy, Colonel Farrand offered the congratulations of the state department. He commended the Appleton legionnaires, not only for developing the largest post in Wisconsin but also for displaying a quality second to no other post in the state, he said. The spirit of comradeship and cooperation here is splendid, and the factors responsible for the high position attained by the Oney Johnston post in state legion circles is easily discernable, he pointed out.

Colonel Farrand reviewed the objectives of the American Legion and outlined the steps the veterans are taking to accomplish their purposes. The chief aim, he explained, is to bind up the wounds inflicted in the last war. Although the conflict closed 12 years ago, the call for the relief program remains urgent and will continue to command the attention of the legion for years to come, according to the commander.

Care of Wounded "Rehabilitation and hospitalization, or rather sympathetic care, still is the chief duty of the American Legion," Colonel Farrand said. "Care of the wounded and ill is our first objective, but to carry out the program adequately we need a more liberal interpretation of the laws.

"There now are 18,000 veterans in the country waiting to be admitted into hospitals. They are not received because there are no beds for them. Last year 3,544 new cases appeared. We have ample reason to believe that the number of new cases appearing annually will not diminish for a number of years to come, so it will be necessary to make the proper provision."

Colonel Farrand suggested that more hospital beds be provided. The condition the legion wants is that of beds waiting for all veterans, not veterans waiting for beds.

Care of fatherless children is another important objective, according to Colonel Farrand. He strongly urged local groups to wire their congressmen and representatives in Washington whenever requests for such action were received. Only by fast, united action can adequate relief be provided, he pointed out.

Colonel Farrand suggested that the legion's stand for immediate and full payment of adjusted service certificates.

"If the government is to do anything on this question, it must be a 100 per cent payment," he said. "The legion will be satisfied with nothing less."

Warms of Opposition He recalled the recent meeting of the executive committee, when a resolution endorsing the proposal was adopted. No mention of the certificates was made at the national convention because it was deemed best that the move toward securing payment be initiated from an outside source. He warned the legion that there is opposition to the measure in congress, and expressed the fear that unless the veterans continued to work unceasingly for the measure, that amendments may be introduced cutting the amount of compensation.

The legion also is striving to make America a better place in which to live," he said. "Although we all agree that our country is the best in the world, nevertheless we admit that there are certain conditions which can be improved. This program is being carried on with the younger generation, because it is felt that more can be accomplished with them than with adults."

He cited Boy Scout work, junior baseball tournaments, and citizen's military training camps as examples of the legion's program to help to promote health, sportsmanship and a spirit of fair play. In 1929 there were 399,099 boys in the country who took part in baseball. Last year the number grew to 500,000.

Colonel Farrand scored the strong minority that is working to reduce the strength of the country's defense. He charged that there are paid lobbyists in the national capital opposing defense interests, and he warned the legion not to relinquish its efforts to keep the country's defenses up to a reasonable strength.

Praises Legion "The American Legion has become one of the greatest constructive forces in American life," he said. "The Grand Army of the Republic occupied a similar position a few years ago. One cannot picture America of the past 50 years without the G. A. R. If any good comes out of war, it is the leadership that a military struggle develops in men."

"The veterans of the World War now stand ready to play their part in the life of this country as the ranks of the G. A. R. rapidly grew smaller after the war," he said. "The legion now numbers over 1,000,000 men, and in the next 40 years it will produce the leaders in our political, economic, business and professional life."

"I am proud of my citizenship in this country, but I am no less proud of my membership in the American Legion and of my fellowship with men like you."

Fred C. Heinritz, commander of Oney Johnston post, thanked Mr. Graff on behalf of the post for the trophy. He said that when the post first learned of the trophy, the organization determined to strive earnestly to win it. He promised that the post will work just hard next year and the year after with the hope of securing permanent possession of the trophy.

Other posts and legion auxiliaries in the county were guests of the Appleton post, and Elk hall consequently was filled to overflowing. A lunch was served after the meeting.

AGAIN PROPOSE DEATH PENALTY IN MICHIGAN

Electric Chair Asked in Bill for First Degree Murderers

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Capital punishment, which biennially splits the legislature into a furor of dispute and oratory, was before that body again today.

Senator Joe C. Foster of East Lansing, new member, introduced a bill last night demanding death in the electric chair for first degree murderers. Two years ago a measure almost identical with that sponsored by Foster passed both branches of the legislature but was vetoed by Governor Green.

Convictions could be either through a plea of guilty, direct or circumstantial evidence, but review in all cases by the state supreme court would be mandatory. If that tribunal affirmed the first degree verdict the offender would be sent to Jackson prison to pay the extreme penalty in not less than 60 nor more than 90 days after the ruling.

The bill made no provision for submitting the proposal to the people in a state wide referendum. In the 1929 legislature, controversy raged over this point.

Referred to Committee The bill was referred to the senate judiciary committee.

It was learned that Senator Peter E. Lennon, a member of the committee and a veteran proponent of capital punishment, had a bill prepared for introduction when Foster shunted his into the senate.

The principal provisions of the Foster and Lennon bills are: Murder committed by means of poison, lying in wait, or other wilful, deliberate and premeditated killing, or committed in the perpetration or attempt to commit arson, robbery, burglary or rape, or in escaping from a penal institution, shall be deemed first degree murder, punishable by death by electrocution.

If the accused pleads guilty, the circuit court nevertheless shall grant a hearing, and furnish counsel, to determine whether the crime was first degree, and whether the plea was caused by duress or fear.

Women shall not be executed while expectant mothers.

Prison officials, three press representatives and not more than ten relatives and friends may be present at the execution.

CHARGES MADE AGAINST BUTLER STILL SECRET

Washington—(AP)—These charges against Major General Smedley D. Butler must defend himself before a court-martial remained secret today while preparations for his defense and prosecution went ahead. The fighting marine kept in the seclusion of his Quantico, Va., quarters.

Major Henry Leonard, lawyer and a friend of combat days in China, to whom he turned when cited for trial, said the accused officer probably would come to Washington tomorrow.

The trial begins Monday, Feb. 16, in a building of the Philadelphia Navy yard used as an armory. Arrangements are being made for a public hearing, which is expected unless the court itself decides otherwise.

NATIONAL DEBT LESS THAN ONE YEAR AGO

Washington—(AP)—In spite of recent increases in federal tax receipts the national debt on Jan. 31, as the treasury accounted for it today, was more than $300,000,000 less than on the same date a year ago.

The actual net indebtedness of the country amounted to $18,097,475,340, as compared with $16,224,951,375 one year ago.

However, the showing is a 30 per cent reduction from the difficulties of the government's financial administration, which Secretary Mellon has indicated is facing a probable deficit of about $850,000,000 to be realized on June 30, when the fiscal year ends.

The temporary debt reduction made so far this year will be offset shortly by the heavy semi-annual payments in interest coupons on outstanding bonds.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mottling, a student at the University of Wisconsin, is spending a week here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Mottling, between semesters.

Legion and of my fellowship with men like you."

Fred C. Heinritz, commander of Oney Johnston post, thanked Mr. Graff on behalf of the post for the trophy. He said that when the post first learned of the trophy, the organization determined to strive earnestly to win it. He promised that the post will work just hard next year and the year after with the hope of securing permanent possession of the trophy.

EINSTEIN AIRS HIS VIEWS ON SCIENCE, WAR AND RELIGION

New Haven, Conn.—(AP)—In a series of questions and answers published in the Yale Daily News, Prof. Albert Einstein today set forth his views on a variety of subjects, including science, war and religion. He phrased his answers in the third person.

Q—Is civilization as we know it before the World War in danger of breaking up? And can scientific research do anything about it?

A—Professor Einstein thinks indeed that the lack of international understanding and organization may be a serious danger in this connection, but thinks scientific investigation could not have any direct influence on the solution of this problem; only man's own determination can solve the problem.

Q—Is there any basic conflict between scientific research and a religion that presupposes an all-intelligent, omnipotent God?

A—This question is not clear to be answered, because under religion you may understand so many different things. It would take a whole volume to answer it.

Other questions and answers show Einstein believes it is possible that the person of average intelligence will sometimes understand the theory of relativity as well as he understands gravitation.

The main problem of the relativity theory at present is extension of the theory to include gravitation and electro-magnetic phenomena.

The professor is working on a unified mathematical theory to show gravitation, light, electricity and electro-magnetism as different forms of the same thing.

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—A charge that Michigan copper companies include a tax in their sales to customers while not actually paying it to the state was made by Rep. William B. His bill would provide a severance tax for natural resources and another levy against telephone, electric and gas bills.

Wreford claimed that copper companies in this state added 25 cents a ton "to cover average tax of 17.5 cents a ton," when the United States Supreme court upheld the Minnesota iron ore tax.

HOOVER HITS AT AID BILLS IN CONGRESS

Very Root of Self-government Threatened, President Warns People

Drought Loan act was liberal as far as its funds were concerned so many restrictions had been included in the act and in regulations to administer it that "little benefit is to be expected from it."

The text of the president's remarks, in part, was:

"Certain senators have issued a public statement to the effect that unless the president and the house of representatives agree to appropriations from the federal treasury for charitable purposes they will force an extra session of congress."

"I do not wish to add acrimony to a discussion, but would rather state this case as I see its fundamentals."

Not Issue of Hunger "This is not an issue of whether people shall go hungry or cold in the United States. It is solely a question of the best method by which hunger and cold shall be prevented."

"It is a question as to whether the American people on one hand will maintain the spirit of charity and mutual self-help through voluntary giving and the responsibility of local government as distinguished on the other hand from appropriations out of the federal treasury for such purposes."

"My own conviction is strongly that if we break down this sense of responsibility of individual generosity to individual and mutual self-help in this country in times of national difficulty, and if we start appropriations of this character we have not only impaired something infinitely valuable in the life of the American people but have struck at the roots of self-government."

"Once this has happened it is not the cost of a few score millions but we are faced with the abyss of reliance in the future upon government charity in some form or other."

"The money involved is indeed the least of the costs to American ideals and American institutions...."

"The basis of successful relief in national distress is to mobilize and organize the infinite number of agencies of self help in the community. That has been the American way of relieving distress among our own people and the country is successful, fully meeting its problem in the American way today."

Two Relief Problems "We have two entirely separate and distinct situations in the country; the first is the drought area; the second is the unemployment in our large industrial centers—for both of which these appropriations attempt to make charitable contributions."

"Immediately upon the appearance of the drought last August, I convoked a meeting of the governors, the Red Cross and the railroads, the bankers and other agencies in the country and laid the foundations of organization and the resources to stimulate every degree of self-help to meet the situation which it was then obvious would develop."

"The result of this action was to attack the drought problem in a number of directions. The Red Cross established committees in every drought county, comprising the leading citizens of those counties, with instructions to them that they were to prevent starvation among their neighbors and, if the problem went beyond local resources, the Red Cross would support them."

"The organization has stretched throughout the area of suffering, the people are being cared for, the drought is being met, and with sympathetic understanding and up on the responsibility of their neighbors who are being supported in turn by the fine spirit of mutual assistance of the American people. The Red Cross officials whose long devoted service and experience is unchallenged, inform me this morning that except for the minor incidents of any emergency organization, no one is going hungry and no one need go hungry or cold."

"To reinforce this work at the opening of congress I recommended large appropriations for loans to rehabilitate agriculture from the drought and provision of further loans for public works and other construction in the drought territory which would give employment in further relief to the whole situation. These federal activities provide for an expenditure of upward of $100,000,000 in this area and it is in progress today."

Has Met Situation "The Red Cross has always met the situations which it has undertaken. After careful survey and after actual experience of several months with their part of the problem they have announced firmly that they can command the resources with which to meet any call for human relief in prevention of hunger and suffering in drought areas and that they accept this responsibility. They have refused to accept federal appropriations as not being consonant either with the need or the character of their organization. The government departments have given and are giving them every assistance...."

"I will accredit to those who advocate federal charity a natural anxiety for the people of their states. I am willing to pledge myself that if the time should ever come that the voluntary agencies of the country together with the local and state governments are unable to find resources with which to prevent hunger and suffering in any country, I will ask the aid of every resource of the federal government."

APPLETON BOY ADMITS DRIVING STOLEN AUTO

Lawrence Mader Held for Sentence Pending Probe of Train Wreck

An Appleton youth, Lawrence Mader, 17, 1003 W. Franklin-st., is being held in the Brown-co jail at Green Bay under $1,000 bond pending an investigation to determine whether he was connected with the abandonment of a stolen automobile on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks, south of DePere, last week. The car caused the derailment of a passenger train en route to Green Bay from Chicago.

The "Flyer Special" was traveling about 60 miles an hour when it struck the vacant automobile. The wheels of the locomotive buckled a rail and the train came to a sudden stop. None of the passengers were injured. About 40 minutes were required to repair the tracks before traffic could be resumed.

Arrested On Suspicion Mader entered the case when he was arrested here last Sunday night by Officer Adna Thomack on suspicion. The car he was driving bore license plates which had been issued to another machine. Investigation revealed that the car had been stolen at Green Bay last Friday. It was owned by Arthur Collier, 204 Minnabldg. Mader was turned over to Brown-co officials and charged with driving a car without the owner's consent.

This morning, investigation at Green Bay revealed that the license plates on the machine were issued to the car which had been abandoned on the railroad tracks.

Mader was arraigned in municipal court at Green Bay on the charge of driving a car without consent of the owner and he pleaded guilty. Sentence was deferred until Feb. 10. He has denied abandoning the stolen car on the tracks, and Brown-co officials have sent a car to question the youth.

Three other Appleton youths, one of them a brother of Lawrence Mader, also are being held by Green Bay police pending the arrival of officials from Evanston, Ill., to take them to that city to face charges.

The three boys were arrested by William Maes and Norbert Randau, Green Bay motorcycle officers, on suspicion. The car they were driving, a Hupmobile sedan, was found to have been stolen at Evanston, but the license plate on the car was those from the machine of Collier, which was found in the possession of Lawrence Mader.

Held For Police The three youths are: Charles Mader, 15, 1003 W. Franklin-st.; Ray Pocan, 15, W. Washington-st.; and Richard Miller, 17, 838 E. Johnston-st. Green Bay police notified Evanston police of the arrest and they expected officials from that city Tuesday to take the trio to Illinois to face charges.

All four of the boys have police records here. The Mader boys and Miller have been in juvenile court several times in the last six weeks on various charges, while Pocan was paroled from juvenile court only a few weeks ago.

Roman Roggenbauer, 19, of Neosho, Wis., also was arrested Sunday on suspicion when he was found driving a car with license numbers which did not correspond. He was turned over to the sheriff of Washington-co, who took him to West Bend for prosecution. Roggenbauer was arrested by Officer Gus Heskorn.

This youth also has a police record, according to Police Chief George T. Prim. Roggenbauer has a record at West Bend.

GIVE CHILD MUSIC, IS MURSELL'S PLEA

Dr. J. L. Mursell of Lawrence college spoke on Musical Education of the Child at the meeting of the First Ward Parent Teachers association Monday evening. He propounded his theories on the teaching of music to children, pointing out that youngsters should have a chance to feel rhythm, improve their sketches, and experiment with instruments before a musical education is forced upon them.

Prof. actor, Percy Fullinwider played two movements from the "Sonata," and several shorter numbers as encores.

A short visitation period preceded the meeting, which was attended by 100 mothers and fathers of First ward school children. Parents of sixth grade pupils acted as hosts and hostesses at the social hour after the meeting.

DIVIDENDS OF PRESENT MONTH SHOW DECLINE

Anaconda Copper One of Most Conspicuous Instances of Reductions

BY BRADLEY W. TRENT
Copyright 1931, By Cons. Press
New York —(C.P.A.)— Although February is an off month for dividend and interest payments, dividends were disbursed on more than 740 issues Monday and for the month will run to substantially higher figures.

The total turnover this month, including dividends, interest, payments of maturing bonds and exercise or rights is estimated at approximately $465,000,000.

Nearly all of the dividend payments Monday and following days of February consist of regular payments. Only about two dozen extras are being paid. Moreover, regular dividends in some instances have been reduced owing to shrinkage of corporation profits last year.

One of the most conspicuous instances of dividend reductions affecting payments this month is that made last year by the Anaconda Copper Mining company. That company will pay its quarterly dividend Feb. 9. The payment this year at the rate of 62 cents a share will come to about $5,500,000, whereas a year ago when the company was paying at the rate of $1.75 a share the dividend disbursements amounted to more than $15,000,000.

Other Coppers Down
Similarly the Andes Copper mining company, a subsidiary, which in February, 1930, paid a dividend of 75 cents a share aggregating more than $2,686,000, this year will pay at the rate of 25 cents a share with the result that the total disbursement will come to less than $800,000.

The Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation is another well-known mining company to reduce its payment. In February, 1930, that company disbursed $1,684,000 in dividends on its stock, while the payment this year will come to less than $600,000 as a result of a cut in the annual rate to $2 a share from the $4 rate paid in the previous quarter and $6 paid in the first three quarters of 1930.

Altogether dividend payments this month are estimated at approximately $200,000,000. Among the companies which made payments Monday are Allied Chemical, American Smelting & Refining, General Foods, Goodyear, Gold Dust, Great Northern preferred, Loosewiles, Southern Railway, New York Central, Northern Pacific, and Sears Roebuck.

Bond Maturities Due
Maturities of bonds next month, most of which are payable Monday, amount to $20,453,000. No large issues are payable, however, the principal one not exceeding $5,000,000. Redemption of those bonds means, of course, that an equivalent sum of money will be paid to bondholders.

Rights to subscribe to new stock issues this month involve subscriptions to issues aggregating approximately $25,000,000. Three companies offered rights which expired Monday. Public Service Corporation of Northern Illinois offered $11,320,000 in stock at par. Commonwealth Edison offered $14,250,000 stock at par. The Swedish Match company offered 800,000 shares at approximately $40.20 a share, but the offering interests the continent of Europe only, as little of the stock is owned on this side.

Interest payments in February are estimated in the neighborhood of $200,000,000. They affect corporation bond holders almost exclusively, as no substantial United States government or municipal payments will be made at that time.

CLAIMS LEAGUE WAS ORGANIZED ONLY TO FIGHT LAKE LEVEL

Mayor of Oshkosh Says All Other Objects Are Subterfuges

Mayor T. G. Brown of Oshkosh, when he learned last week of the organization of the Fox River Valley League of Municipalities, declared that though the new group claims several objectives he sees in the organization only a cooperative effort to "drown Oshkosh under high water."

The main purpose of the new valley cities group is to secure the higher level of water for Lake Winnebago, Mayor Brown said. The association, he acknowledged, has other purposes, too, but he contends they are just coverings to support the main intention of the cities. Neither Oshkosh or Fond du Lac, two of the leading cities of the valley, were invited to attend the organization meeting, the mayor pointed out. These two cities were excluded because of their announced opposition to the raise in the lake level, Mayor Brown claims.

"They are right when they presume that Oshkosh and Fond du Lac will make a fight against the high lake level. We do not want to be drowned under high water here in Oshkosh, and we are going to insist upon adequate consideration in this matter."

28 TURK REBELS ARE HANGED FOR PART IN REVOLT

Seven Persons Escape Death Through Commu- tation of Sentences

Menemen, Turkey — (AP) — The bodies of 28 Turkish Moslem reactionaries swung from gibbets in the cold Balkan wind today in a stern warning from the republic that the days of the caliphate have passed forever.

Singly and in some cases by groups the condemned men, convicted of leading an abortive revolutionary movement here Dec. 23, were led at dawn from their cells to the gallows, where gipsy hangmen, western caps oddly topping baggy Turkish trousers and scarlet sashes, swung them aloft.

Because of the martial law which has been in effect since the revolt, citizens were kept in their homes until 8 o'clock a. m. and there were almost no witnesses to the executions beyond a few officials. An occasional scream could be heard from women peeping from behind shuttered windows, however, and with the advance of day, huddling crowds passed the grisly scene. Perhaps the only cheerful place in Menemen today was the prison where seven persons rejoiced because their sentences were commuted at the last moment from death to 24 years imprisonment. These were all over 55 or older 20 years of age. One of these was an 18-year-old shepherd boy, who when asked why he prayed continually replied that he was, thanking the soul of his dead mother for not having brought him into the world two years earlier.

Too Many Gibbets
Thirty-two gibbets were erected yesterday for the condemned, but at the last moment the Turkish parliament at Angora commuted the sentence of two, and two others, terrified at the approach of their hour of doom, died of heart disease. The four unneeded gallows were torn down during the night.

In cases where it was possible the gibbets were erected on the spots where the condemned men harangued the Menemen populace two days before the Christian Christmas and pleaded with them to arise in behalf of Islam, destroy the western innovations of Mustafa Kemal Pasha, the Gazi, replace the derby with a fez, and restore the caliphate of Allah's golden age.

A young Turkish army officer, seeing what was happening rushed to give the alarm. He was caught by the reactionaries, who included dervishes and fanatical Moslems of the wild mountain country, and was beheaded. Troops and police put down the movement and hundreds of arrests followed.

Besides those condemned to die in the ensuing trials 41 dervishes, priests and their acolytes, must serve sentences of three to 24 years hard labor for clandestine religious practices and failure to notify the government of the machinations of Sheikh Essad, the leader of the movement.

The Menemen prisons are crammed now with three hundred suspects awaiting trial by military courts on the same charges. Among these are dervishes suspected of demoralizing Turkish girls, many of whom have been found throughout Smyrna province tattooed with mystic dervish emblems and mottoes such as "Thou Art My Goddess."

Sheik's Son Hanged
Sheik Essad, aged 96 and known as the Rasputin of Turkey because of his unusual power with women, was one of those condemned to be hanged but he cheated the gallows with a natural death in his cell last week. His son, the old Priest Ali, aged 64, was one of those hanged today, however—the oldest of the group of doomed men and their leader after the death of his father.

On the breast of each of the hanged men after execution of the court's sentence there was placed a placard, on which were the words in Latin characters: "Thus end traitors to Turkey."

The Dervish Hassan was the first to be led from his cell today for execution, his scaffold being on the public square where he and five other dervishes harangued the Menemen public Dec. 23. Successively

BARONESS DIES AT LONDON HOME

Heart Attack Fatal to Former Helen Vivien Gould, American Heiress

London — (AP) — The former Helen Vivien Gould, American heiress who was the youthful bride of the fifth Baron Deedes dazzled English society, died here at dawn today of a heart attack which developed from jaundice. She was 39 years old and had been ill three weeks.

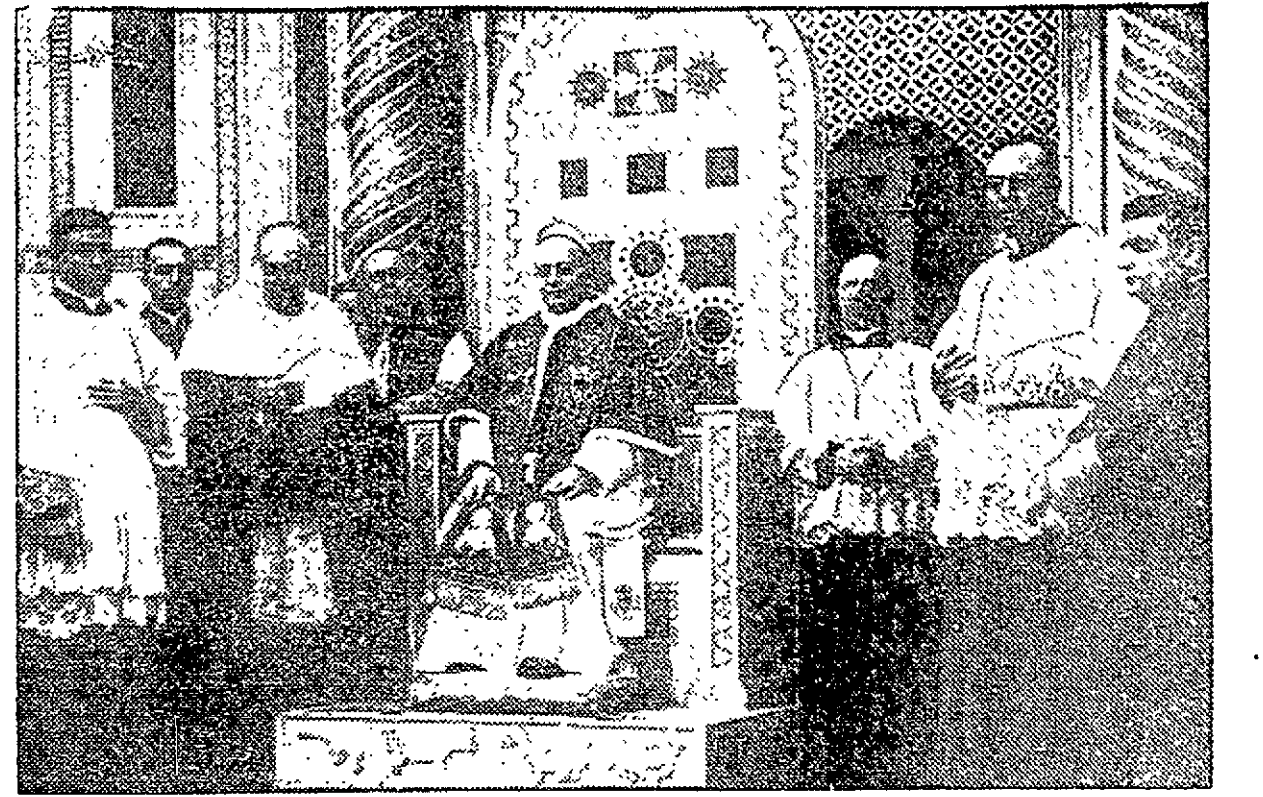

Death came in a London nursing home. Besides her husband, who has had a famous career in the army, she left three children, a son and two daughters.

The grand-daughter of Jay Gould, whose railroad manipulations made him a major king of the post-Civil war period, Lady Deedes came to be known in England for the spectacles she sometimes presented society, her penchant for the unexpected, and as a lavish but charming hostess.

She was married in 1911 when she was 19 years old. The ceremony was performed in New York, its splendor and the prominence of the principals giving it wide publicity.

Her name was frequently in the headlines, particularly when on her honeymoon she smoked a cigaret at the railroad station in Brunswick, Ga. Her reception in the British court was a triumph. She appeared before the king and queen in a white satin gown embroidered in diamonds, pearls and crystals and a train rich with silver lilies and ermine.

The elite of London thronged the series of balls, dinners and the like which followed and she became one of the most prominent figures of English society.

She was active in Red Cross work during the war, and since had been a great traveler, making several adventurous trips with her husband into west Africa and other parts of the world. Her husband, John Graham Hope de la Poer Berestford, was once a lieutenant colonel commanding the South Irish horse, and from 1916 to 1919 was chief press censor for Ireland.

Lady Deedes was one of the heirs to the $75,000,000 Gould fortune, over which legal battles raged for years. Her father was the late George Jay Gould, who followed Jay Gould as head of the interests which the family name usually is associated.

FRANCE HURRIES TO BAR DOOR AS JOBS DECREASE

Country Now Realizes It Will Not Fail to Feel Depres- sion

Paris — (AP) — France has been a year late in feeling the pinch of the world economic depression, but now discovers that she is not destined to escape it.

With unemployment increasing at the rate of 1,500 a week, workmen and statesmen are equally concerned to find that their nation has an immigration problem on its hands. It is pointed out that 1,700,000 foreigners are among the 12,000,000 workmen drawing wages and salaries in France.

That state of affairs did not seem so significant last October 31, when official figures showed that there were fewer than 2,000 workmen drawing doles from benefit or other funds. Since then the picture has changed.

In November the number of unemployed increased at the rate of about 1,000 a week, and December 1 found the official total close to 6,000. The next four weeks found unemployment increasing at the rate of 1,500 a week, and the turn of the year saw the total almost at the 12,000 mark.

The ministry of Labor has decreed that all demands for work permits, emanating from foreigners desirous of entering France shall be handled by a special bureau created for that purpose. Each application is examined individually.

Capital stock of Mississippi firms incorporated in 1930 amounted to $10,000,000.

Consider the Kind and Size of a Room

ANOTHER factor which should be well considered before making a final selection is the kind and size of a room in which the furniture is to be placed.

Occasional pieces and small suites, decorated in the warm tones, contain more glow or light, and serve to bring the walls of a room closer together, while furnishing a room completely with pieces done in the cool tones will make the backgrounds retreat. This has been proven by decorating two rooms of identical proportions, one in red, the other in a clear blue. The one done in blue seemed at a casual glance to be more than twenty-five per cent larger than the one in red, helping to establish the fact that furniture decorated in any of the cool colors is well adapted for use in small rooms. The proper application of these color laws tends to determine the successful interior.

Don't Slap Child, Is Patri Plea

BY ANGELO PATRI
Promotion time always brings a crop of complaints about teachers. Most of the children who blame the teachers for their failures are wrong. The teachers are always glad to have children do well. If they err one side or the other it is usually on the side of generosity. More unfit children are likely to be promoted than to be left back.

"Yes, but how can you expect a boy to get promoted if his teacher hates him?" When he makes a mistake she screeches at him, stamps her foot on his toes if he gets his feet out into the aisle and you know the seats are too small for these boys. How can a boy get promoted if he has a teacher like that? If he turns his head or whispers she slaps him in the face."

"And you didn't say a word about all this until the end of the term? How did it happen that you allowed a teacher to treat your son in this way without protesting? Your protest might as well have been made at the beginning of the term as at the end."

The situation is plain. The boy was backward, and behaved as all backward children do. They wiggle and squirm. They cannot hold their attention on the subject. They find they cannot understand it. Then they whisper. They strive to find excuses from what has become an intolerable situation.

Now if the teacher is the right sort she interprets all this very soon and sets to work to adjust the child. He is examined, treated, regarded, and when term end comes no such complaint can be registered justly or unjustly. The real teacher rarely has such complaints registered against her even by the most chronic of loafers.

But what if the teacher is not the right sort? There are some schools. Although they are the pay rolls of the schools they were never teachers in the right sense of the word. They kept school, they minded children, but they were not, are not teachers. No teacher worthy the name would stamp on a child's toes because he had his feet out in the aisle. She or he would know that this was a signal for physical relaxation and send the child on a trip about the room, or about the school on an errand. Disorder and inattention would be the signal for an examination of the child's adjustment to the instruction and an adjustment. Slapping a school child is out of the question. It is useless, unnecessary, and leads only to augmenting the difficulties whatever they are.

When a child shows signs of failing, and poor class room conduct is a sign to be interpreted in that manner, it is the duty of the teacher to analyze the child's condition at home, at school, in the playground. Have him examined and tested. Call upon any and all the powers accredited for his relief. Follow up every clue, every suggestion by whomsoever made until some solution is found for the child.

A teacher's duty does not end with the course of study. That course is the means to end, the development of the mind of a child. Real teachers look beyond the course to the child and see him as he is. Then they bend every effort toward helping him out of his difficulties. These are the right sort of teachers. The others do not matter. Time will eliminate them from the child's experience.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of the Post-Crescent, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

DISMISS SUIT AGAINST THREE GAME WARDENS

Judge Holds No Grounds for Damage Action Asking $5,000

Oshkosh—Conservation Warden Albert Chase, Royal Ott and Albert Durham have free today of charges of falsely arresting William Luedke of Colunet-c. His suit for $5,000 damages for false arrest was dismissed by Circuit Judge Fred Beginger yesterday for want of grounds.

The civil action was related to state prosecutions of Luedke and his brother, Victor, under the fish and game laws. As stated in court testimony in the state action was that William rowed the boat while the brother had a fish spear in his possession.

Victor Luedke was found guilty of law violation in Justice Jensen's court, appealed to municipal court and later was granted a change of venue to circuit court. He finally pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

The complaint alleged the first state complaint against Luedke, signed by Chase, was issued without showing a probable cause. A change of venue was obtained from Jensen's court, it appeared and another justice dismissed the proceeding. It was alleged that Durham also swore to a complaint charging the same offense on the same date and that Luedke was also before Justice Jensen on that charge. He pleaded not guilty, and it is alleged he was induced to enter a plea. It is set forth a change of venue was sought, but could not be obtained because the defendant had already pleaded.

William was found guilty at the same trial in which his brother was found guilty. The boat used by the brothers was confiscated and this point also was mentioned in the complaint. The plaintiff asked damages for expenses incurred, loss of time, and injury to his good name.

The answer admitted all the facts but denied anything contrary to law was done or that there was any conspiracy to injure Luedke's reputation.

GETS RADIO MESSAGE
Rochester, N. Y.—(AP)—Ferry W. Eisen, radio amateur, said today he had received a message that 100 persons had been killed at Napier, New Zealand, by an earthquake.

Eisen, operator of short wave station W8BX, said the message was received from short wave station ZL3CM in New Zealand under perfect reception conditions.

The earthquake rocked many towns along the entire North Island district of New Zealand, Eisen was informed, causing most serious damage at Napier. Here 50 oil tanks on the waterfront were set ablaze, the flames spreading inland and sweeping over the city. Doctors and nurses, said the radio message, were being rushed to the scene by water.

ent value represents in cash, he expressed a conviction there would be no serious demand for cash payment. "Further, it goes without saying," he asserted, "that the average veteran would not advocate or favor any proposal which would disrupt, or tend to disrupt, the fiscal policies of the government, or which would affect adversely the economic situation of the country."

Hines outlined the various plans. He said one which had been given quite a bit of consideration would be to increase loan value of certificates 50 per cent. This would cost $1,711,500,000 if all took advantage of it. In response to a question by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, he said probably one-third of the veterans would take advantage of this.

Duffield said payment of the cash value of the certificates would delay recovery from the depression. With the present financial condition, he said, the economic structure would be "seriously disturbed" by a government bond issue sufficient to pay off the certificates. Insurance and other bonding companies, including banks, would be compelled to prepare themselves by disposing of their present securities at losses.

Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, asked Undersecretary Mills of the treasury, what was the difference between paying $3,500,000 now and in 1945.

Mills answered that the government was unprepared now and that it would be ready then to take care of the situation.

CANNERY PUSHES UP OPERATIONS

January Brings About Slight Recovery, Hamiltons Report

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—January saw a distinct increase in operations at the two plants owned and operated by Hamilton and Sons, cannery of Kraut and beans. Heads of the firm state that the general trend of orders indicates that business recovery has started, and that the climb back to normalcy will be steady, though perhaps slow.

The three months before the new year were the least active in many years, it was asserted. Since that time, when operations at the two large plants were severely curtailed, work has increased. Canning of kraut is now going on at both Shiocton and New London at about 50 per cent of normal capacity. About 60 employees are engaged at the Shiocton factory and about 150 at New London. Home grown kraut entirely is being canned, no cabbage from outside states being received this year.

The cause for the decrease in orders is traced to the fact that, though sauerkraut and beans are considered staple goods, yet in cases of extreme depression there is less tendency toward the purchase of tinned foods. People turn to bulk commodities, it was pointed out, and to those foods the purchase of which entail the least expense.

If You are Over-Fat Take 2 Grains Gland Food Daily Until Slenderness Returns

That is the method modern science has discovered. It is used by doctors the world over. It has changed the whole aspect of obesity. Very many of the slender figures that you envy are due to this new-day help. Single physicians, by its use, are making thousands thin. The reason is this: A great cause of excess fat has been found to be in a weakened gland. Its secretion largely controls nutrition. A scant secretion permits too much of our food to form fat. So modern doctors feed that lacking factor until conditions are set right. Marmola's prescription tablets embody that gland factor. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. Each box contains the formula and the reasons for results. So all may use this

King Tut Hangs K. O. On Billy Petrolle In First Round

FIGHT LASTS BUT 24 SECONDS; TO MEET CANZONERI

Capacity Crowd of 10,249
Fans Pay $38.546 to See "Battle"

ST. PAUL—(AP)—A sawed-off, barrel-chested young man from Minneapolis named Henry Tuttle, fighting under the name of King Tut, finds himself in a spot today to cause Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, a lot of worry.

Tut jumped into the commanding position as a ranking challenger for the lightweight championship last night by scoring a startling upset victory over battle-scarred Billy Petrolle in exactly 24 seconds. He knocked out the faded "Fargo Express" before he could get out of his own corner and to the amazement of a record-smashing, capacity crowd of 10,249 spectators who paid $38.546 to witness the battle.

The King intends to force Canzoneri into a title match. Petrolle had been in line for the match as the result of a victory over Canzoneri before he became lightweight champion, and also his surprise triumph over Jimmy McLarnin.

The knockout was the first for Petrolle although he had twice previously fallen victim to technical knockouts.

As the bell changed starting the fight, Tut charged out of his corner, rushed across the ring and caught Petrolle before he could advance a step. Swinging a right hand punch that started from his hips, he caught the bewildered Petrolle on the rim of the chin. That blow dazed him and he desperately attempted to wrestle him off and then cracked him on the jaw with a barrage of rights and lefts. Petrolle's legs bent under him and he sank to the canvas, landing on his haunches, with his head hanging over the second rope of the ring.

While sitting in this position, unconscious to the excitement, Petrolle was counted out. He instinctively attempted to get up at the count of nine, but his benumbed muscles refused to respond and he sank back completely out. He did not land a single punch.

Last night's battle drew the largest crowd in Minnesota's boxing history and a gate second only to the world's middleweight championship fight between Mike Gibbons and Mike O'Dowd, St. Paul rivals, fought here eleven years ago.

Petrolle received a $12,000 guarantee, the largest purse of his long career. Tut will receive at least $10,000 on a percentage basis above Petrolle's guarantee.

Tut weighed 138½ pounds. He had agreed to weigh no more than 140 pounds.

CANZONERI REPORTED ILL
Chicago—(AP)—Any desire on the part of Chicago boxing enthusiasts to see light weight champion Tony Canzoneri for the first time since he won his title, will have to be satisfied some other time than tomorrow night.

The New York Italian was signed by the Chicago Stadium to meet Goldie Hess of Los Angeles, in the feature ten-rounder, but Hess' illness last Saturday. Canzoneri discovered yesterday he didn't feel so well himself and returned to New York, leaving the Stadium without a main bout.

Matchmaker Nate Lewis today was trying to line up Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., featherweight, and a suitable opponent to fill the spot. Failing this, he indicated the ten rounder between Kid Francis of Italy and George Nait, South Bend, Ind., bantamweight, would be moved up.

PENN REORGANIZES ATHLETIC SYSTEM

Control and Management of Athletics Taken Over by President

Philadelphia—(AP)—The entire athletic structure at the University of Pennsylvania will be reorganized upon a basis of simplicity and "under-emphasis" in the most drastic single upheaval of eastern intercollegiate sports history.

Control and management of athletics have been taken over completely by Thomas S. Gates, president of the university, and his board of trustees while the sports themselves will be given back to the students. The present all-powerful council on athletics, composed of alumni, students and faculty, will be abolished.

Spring and pre-season training in football, training camps, training tables, dormitories for athletes, as well as scholarship and beyond that won in the classroom, have been wiped out. In all sports coaches will be made members of the faculty and will receive the salaries of faculty members.

Intercollegiate competition will be fostered with natural rivals on a year-round basis through the whole range of teams in each sport. Intramural athletics will be stressed, even to some sport, and the development of prominent athletes under this system "will tend to lessen the necessity for dependence upon enrollment of star athletes as a basis for varsity teams."

Back To School
Iowa City, Ia.—(AP)—Willis A. Glasgow, all-American halfback and captain of Iowa football team, has re-entered the university to begin the study of law. He played professional football last season with the Portsmouth, Ohio, eleven.

And the Babe Bagged a Deer

Unworried by the salary problem that caused him sleepless nights about a year ago, Mr. George Herman Ruth, otherwise Babe, took to the woods near Goldsboro, N. C., the other day and proceeded to shoot himself a deer. Babe and the deer are shown above, Babe being the one standing right-side up. Following his hunting vacation in the Carolina woods, Ruth plans to move over into Florida and get down to work with the Yankees in their spring training grind at St. Petersburg. Rumor says, and the picture seems to bear it out, that the Babe has few pounds to take off in the training period. He has been fairly active this winter and is near his normal playing weight, which is plenty.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

STATEMENTS of West Point officials making it clear that in the Goff case the position of the military academy is analogous to that of any institution of which an alumnus has been a bit too zealous.

Kenneth Goff is a student at the Rhode Island state college and a crack fullback. He went to prep school with Paul Carroll, a West Point cadet. The two were close friends there and Carroll wanted him to come to the academy and Goff wanted to come.

Now Carroll is not manager-elect of the 1931 Army team, as stated. He is only in his second year at the service institution and has been elected fourth assistant manager. Carroll spoke to Major Ralph Sasse, the football coach, about his friend and Sasse said he could do nothing about it. Carroll, it appears, then wrote to W. T. Wrightson of New York, asking him to do what he could. Wrightson is a member of the Army Athletic association, as many civilians are, and anything he did was done without any knowledge whatever of the army athletic authorities. This, in brief, is the West Point position.

It is not a pleasant position by any means. In maintaining its stand as to eligibility West Point has recognized the importance of being absolutely scrupulous about conditions under which cadets are admitted to the institution. Friends of the academy have realized that the best service they can do the Army is to keep their hands off to the end that the influx of athletic material may be a perfectly natural one, based exclusively upon the personal predilections in favor of a career under the flag. An incident such as that of Kenneth Goff creates a bad impression among a public which forms its impressions on headlines or thinks it reads between the lines.

The Army was let in for embarrassment in the Letzelter case even though no one attached to the academy. That matter remains to be settled and in due time will be definitely adjusted; in the process it is assured that care will be taken to exercise all fairness to a cadet whose presence in the institution seems to have been due to a genuine desire for a career as an army officer, while at the same time the academy will of course protect itself rigidly.

This from "Packer" McFarland at Manitowish:
"Although Dapper Joe Shields, who during the school year manages to coach the high school football teams, basketball squad, ice hockey sextet, and track squad and at the same time find enough spare moments to visit his tailor and favorite haberdashery establishment so that his sartorial adornments shall be up to the minute, as denoted by the latest fashions, has already commenced to worry about track even though he has his Orange clad basketballers in the midst of a hot battle for the Valley title. It has all come about through the establishment of the javelin throw in the spring track meets."

"Shields was already counting the five points—first place in the javelin—as 'in the bag.' For did he not have Em Mortell, the best spear thrower in the Fox River Valley conference. But at the last meeting of the Valley conference heads it was decided to abandon the javelin throw as an event in future track and field meets. This was done on account of the danger of injury to bystanders by a carelessly tossed spear."

"And now Joe is wondering what kind of legislation can be enacted to outlaw the shot and the discus. From where we sit it looks as if Shields is laying his plans to capture the conference track meet this spring. But he might as well forget about those five points in the javelin."

Myrt Easing and Punk McGlynn once evaded the gridiron for Lawrence back in the days when a Lawrence football team meant something. Now "Punk" is known as "Stoney" and pens yarns about sports. This is what he thinks of Myrt's ability as a bowler:

"It wasn't so many years ago that one Myrt Easing was flaunting his heels over fallen gridiron foes for Lawrence college. In one game against Ripon he got into the fray in the second half, after Chuck Buck had kept him on the bench while awaiting the break, and he immediately proceeded to make some grid history. Lawrence hearts palpitated and Ripon hearts sank to the shoe tops when, on two plays, he ran 52 and 74 yards for touchdowns."

"Then came a career with the mighty Packers of Green Bay with whom Base played for several seasons. Appleton, the old home town, shouted his praise and his glories to the skies."

"But now, alas, the hero has fallen. Even his good wife Estelle has lost faith. The reason: One Myrt Easing, rolling with the First Wisconsin company in the state bowling tournament, rolled 'varm' with a dead weight 48. Opposite this famed warrior's name were these figures: 152, 152, 133—435. Such a score whippers for itself."

Base, the grid hero of yesterday, is the house slapper, smoking jacket addict of today. He's a push over at contract and a rousing game of backgammon is his absolute limit of his effectiveness."

MADISON—"If all institutions handed their spring football practice as it is conducted in the Western Conference, there would be no objection to it and little talk of over-emphasis," was the statement of Glenn Thistlethwaite, head football coach, of the University of Wisconsin, when asked to comment upon the reported decision of Carnegie Tech and other schools to abolish their spring football drills.

"When the football coaches and athletic directors of the country met at New York during the last holiday vacation, this whole matter was thoroughly discussed," Coach Thistlethwaite said. "Hugo Bezdek, Penn State Director, read a report in which he submitted what is called his 'Fourteen Points' for meeting the Conference made most of his proposals matters of rule, years ago. Wisconsin is already enforcing practically all of them and is going decided further in certain directions."

Coach Thistlethwaite mentioned as among leading proposals by Bezdek, making football a regular subject in the curriculum, giving full time coaches the status of faculty members, medical supervision of athletes, limitation of practice to two hours a day, permitting no organized football practice before Sept. 15, enforcing strict scholarship requirements and strict limitation of post season games.

Require High Standard
"Aside from the proposal to place football in curriculum as a regular college subject, all of these suggested reforms have been written into our conference rules—many of them years ago," the head coach stated. "We now require a higher standard of work by our athletes than is demanded of non-athletic students."

Coach Thistlethwaite does not, however, agree with those who

RIVER FALLS BEATS LA CROSSE, 24 TO 23

River Falls—(AP)—Defeating the LaCrosse Teachers here last night in a thrilling basketball game, 24 to 23, the River Falls peds today topped the Teachers' college conference, the only undefeated team in the circuit.

The outcome of the game was in doubt until the end. Taking an early lead of 6 to 1, River Falls was soon tied by the scrapping La Crosse team at 8 points. The half ended 16 to 14 with the Falls in the lead. In the second half, La Crosse snared a lead of 21 to 18, but was able to hold it only a few minutes.

River Falls has four victories to its credit and La Crosse has a record of three wins and one defeat.

Rajah's Ready

Rogers Hornsby

Chicago—(AP)—Manager Rogers Hornsby of the Cubs, who insists that baseball players under his charge be in good physical condition, makes no exception of himself.

The "rajah" headed today toward Catalina Island, California, spring proving ground of the Cubs, almost two weeks ahead of the first contingent of Cubs so he could get in some extra tricks of drill.

"I never felt better," Hornsby told President William Veck of the Cubs in their final conference here recently. "My heel no longer troubles me and the ankle I broke last season has stood up perfectly during the long hours I have walked while hunting and pounding around my farm."

FRENCH RUNNERS DUE IN U. S. TODAY

Seraphin Martin and Paul Keller to Show During Indoor Season

New York—(AP)—Foreign track and field stars, invading the United States for the indoor season, inevitably face a difficult task in adapting their style to board tracks and only a few have been able to overcome the handicap.

Paavo Nurmi, the "Finnish phantom," and Charley Hoff, crack Norwegian pole vaulter, were the outstanding exceptions. It remains to be seen whether Seraphin Martin and Paul Keller, famed French middle distance runners, can show the same disregard as Nurmi and Hoff did for such a radical change in competitive conditions.

Martin and Keller, due here today aboard the Ile De France, have only a few days to train before they are asked to go out against the best American can offer. Martin's first appearance is in the Milrose A. A. games on Saturday when he starts in a special half mile race against Russell Chapman, great Bates college runner, and one of Keller's American debut will be made in the Stetson Hall college games at Newark on Monday.

All four races in which Martin will compete while here are to be run on banked tracks permitting the use of indoor spiked shoes but Keller, in two races, will be running on flat armory floors.

MANY EXHIBITIONS ARRANGED BY MAJORS

Chicago—(AP)—American league baseball clubs will meet National league teams seventy times during the spring training season, and will play 134 contests with minor league clubs.

The Detroit Tigers have arranged the heaviest list, having scheduled ten games with Pittsburgh and 25 with Pacific coast league teams. The New York Yankees will play 33 games—St. Louis 26, Chicago and Philadelphia 24 each, Boston and Cleveland 22 each and Washington 18. Of the White Sox and Athletics' 24 contests, 17 are listed with National league teams.

Because of their comparatively isolated training camp locations, Washington, Boston and Cleveland will confine their spring activities to competition with minor league clubs to a large extent. The Senators and Red Sox will not encounter major opposition until they return home. While Cleveland will wait until two days before the opening of the championship season before engaging the Cincinnati Reds at Cincinnati.

JOE SAVOLDI BECOMES TUGGER AND GRUNTER

Los Angeles—(AP)—"Jumping Joe" Savoldi, who went places with a football as fullback for Notre Dame, will do his future tugging on a wrestling mat.

Savoldi said last night he was in training here to become a wrestler. He cites the case of Ed Don George, former Michigan university athlete, who in a short month has advanced to claimant to the world heavyweight wrestling title.

"I want to earn enough money to send my brother to college," said Joe, "and attend law school myself. Wrestling will give me that opportunity."

Savoldi tipped the scales at 205 pounds. "Puss" Halbritter, his mauler, said Savoldi would make his mat debut "somewhere in the east" within the next three weeks.

DEBAETS ENTERED IN SIX DAY BIKE RACE

New York—(AP)—Gerard Debaets, rugged Belgian cyclist, is emulating the well-known early worm. His is the first entry received for New York's fifteenth international six day bicycle race, starting in Madison Square Garden Feb. 28. Debaets won two six-day races last year, the only rider to accomplish that feat.

Philadelphia—Harry Bluman, New York, outpointed Pete Nelo, Seminole Indian (10).

Major League Clubs Are Reporting Few Holdouts

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Major league baseball players wintering on the Pacific coast are placing their signatures on 1931 contracts with a minimum of grumbling.

Only eight out of 40, an Associated Press survey shows, are in the "raise the pay" glass. Of these, four are rookies.

As expected, Babe Herman, burly Brooklyn outfielder, is after more money. The big slugger is a perennial holdout.

The recruits who think their palms should be crossed with silver are Johnny Vergez, third baseman going from Oakland to the New York Giants; his team mate, Ernie Lombardi, catcher, purchased by Brooklyn; Myrl Hoag, left Sacramento to the New York Yankees, and Bob Johnson, outfielder who belongs to the Philadelphia Athletics.

Berger Asks $12,500
Walter Berger, heavy hitting outfielder of the Boston Braves, thinks his services are worth $12,500 for the coming season. Lyn Larry, New York Yankee shortstop, and Larry French, southpaw pitcher of Pittsburgh, also are in favor of the "salary uplift" movement.

Consider the customers on the other side of the fence, however. Harry Rosenberg, young Jewish outfielder purchased last mid-season from the San Francisco Missions by the New York Giants for $40,000, hit exactly .000 in nine games as a pinchhitter. His 1931 contract carried a raise of $250 a month. Rosenberg sent the signed contract back by airmail.

Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, ex-Phillies outfielder who goes to Brooklyn this year, received a bonus and a raise. A peak at the new contract made him so happy he went out and played four rounds of golf in one day.

Cronin Gets Raise
Ray Douthitt, St. Louis outfielder, signed a new three-year contract at the end of last season. Joe Cronin, Washington shortstop voted the most valuable player in the American league last season, accepted for a raise and bonus. Ray Johnson of Detroit and Smead Jolley of the Chicago White Sox, outfielders, and Ralph Kress, St. Louis American third sacker, agreed to accept "salary enlargements."

Reports on other big leaguers reveal: St. Louis Cardinals—Chick Hafey and Ernest Ostratt, outfielders: will sign.

Chicago Cubs—Johnny Moore, outfielder, Ed Bassett and Bud Beach, two pitchers, satisfied and will sign. Pittsburgh Pirates—Gus Suhr, first baseman, Ray Kremer, pitcher, Jimmy Mosoff, utility infielder and outfielder who will be given a trial as a pitcher this year: Satisfied all round.

Brooklyn Dodgers—Gordon Slade, shortstop, Johnny Fredericks, outfielder: No complaints.

Boston Nationals—Bruce Cunningham, pitcher, Earl Sheely, first baseman: Satisfied.

Philadelphia Nationals—Dick Barlow, shortstop and Russell Arlett, outfielder: Haven't received contracts but expect no trouble.

Yank Satisfied
New York Yankees—Jimmy Reese, second baseman, Vernon Gomez, pitcher, Tony Lazzeri, third baseman: Satisfied.

Philadelphia Athletics—Frank Palmano, catcher: Will sign.

Cleveland—Earl Averill, outfielder: Ray Thomas, pitcher: No trouble expected.

Boston Americans—Hal Rhyne, shortstop, Jack Rothrock, infielder: Satisfied.

St. Louis Americans—Earl McNeely: Satisfied.

Chicago White Sox—Johnny Kerr, second baseman: Satisfied.

Willie Kamm, Chicago White Sox third baseman whose sale in 1924 by the San Francisco Seals for $125,000 was the first "important move" deal recorded in the Pacific coast league, has not received his contract. Reports are his owners are trying to dispose of him to another club. Kamm, for reasons undivulged, says he would "Welcome a change."

HACK WILSON SIGNS

Chicago—(AP)—Hack Wilson, Cub outfielder and champion home run hitter of the major leagues in 1930, signed a year's contract in Pittsburgh today, the home office of the team was informed by President William L. Veck of the Cubs. The terms were not disclosed, but Veck reported by telephone that Wilson was "well pleased."

EXPORT FUNDS SHOW RISE IN FOREIGN LANDS

High Ratio of Investments Occur in Canadian Issues

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York.—To the average American who has heard a great deal about the curtailment of American credits to foreign countries during the past year and also of the need of reviving these credits in order to stimulate business abroad, it will be a surprise to learn from figures presented Monday by the department of commerce that in 1930 $1,085,000,000, or more than the pre-war debt of the United States, was invested outside of this country.

While this compared with only $671,000,000 in 1929, it measures fairly well with the record from 1924 to 1928, inclusive, during which five-year period the average annual export of capital was approximately $1,100,000,000, or about the same as last year.

An analysis of the 1930 foreign investments indicates that a high ratio occurred in Canadian issues. For instance, nearly $300,000,000 is to be found in long term bonds and notes as well as in common and preferred stocks of Canadian corporations.

Heavy Canadian Financing
The largest borrowers in the dominion were the Canadian railroads, those owned by the government and those privately owned. In addition, Canadian municipalities borrowed about $188,000,000. Altogether Canadian financing amounted to nearly 40 per cent of the total capital supplied by American investors for foreign development in 1930.

Another unexpected feature of the report was the expansion last year in the capital supplied to Latin American countries. This was nearly 3 1/2 times greater than in 1929, amounting to $237,000,000 compared with $67,000,000 in 1929. It included the big coffee loan to Brazil and also sizeable loans to Argentina. Most of it occurred in the first half of last year, or before the revolutionary trend developed in South American politics, out of which the old governments of four countries were overthrown bringing about serious disturbances in currencies and leading up to Monday's application by Peru for a moratorium on approximately $100,000,000 of foreign debt.

This debt includes about $35,000,000 of government loans, two at 6 per cent interest and the third at 7 per cent, a 6 1/2 per cent loan of about $9,000,000 to the city of Lima and one of 7 1/2 per cent to the province of Callao outstanding in the amount of $1,295,000.

There are also understood to be a number of short term bankers' credits which will figure in the final debt reorganization. The coupons on two of these loans fall due on March 1, with the next payments on the large government loans on April 1 and June 1.

All Peruvian bonds have been re-floating for weeks some such situation as now develops. Consequently, the news from Lima Monday was not unexpected, but it had a sentimental effect on other South American issues where the difficulties of meeting payments have been quite generally recognized.

The heaviest decline in foreign investments of American capital last year were in Germany. Even before the September election there was no disposition to increase the commitments to German borrowers, in view of the fact that dollar loans amounting to nearly one and one-quarter billion dollars were already outstanding, of which the greater part were contracted between 1925 and 1928. The main addition last year to German totals was through the government 5 1/2 per cent loan whose reception in this market was not satisfactory and which subsequently declined below 70 after being brought out at 90.

One of the significant movements in foreign securities last year was that of the refunding and repurchase by original borrowers in no recent year has there been such a large scale, amounting to $218,000,000 through direct refunding and probably nearly as much through market operations. As a result net balance of loans last year will eventually be found to have been below the average for the period between 1924 and 1929.

Temperance Board Gives Views On Dry Law Report

Washington.—(AP)—The Methodist Board of Temperance Monday made public a statement of several thousand words, praising much of the Wickersham commission's prohibition report but terming its divided recommendation for revision of the eighteenth amendment a "vague suggestion."

The board agreed to the commission's opposition to repeal, or to entry by the government into the liquor traffic, and commended it for "refusing to endorse the proposal for the establishment of a legal fiction."

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
"AQUARIUS"

If February 4th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 5:30 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

The influences in force on this date make for over-optimism, exaggerated confidence and the support of bubble schemes—do not be carried away by glittering proposals and stimulated emotions! A variety of events and excitement are prognosticated. In the evening, attention will be diverted from work to more romantic and idealistic interests.

Children born on this February 4th will have fiery tempers, a streak of stubbornness, indomitable wills, and considerable affection. They will have to learn many lessons from experience, but they will profit much from this harsh teacher. Much of their selfishness will be outgrown before they reach adulthood.

Born on a February 4th, your chief characteristics are straightforwardness, pluck, modesty and a sense of humor. You have a hot temper, but you do not bear ill will against anybody. If you are hit on the raw, you hit back on the spot, and then forget about it—no back-biting. You call a spade a spade on all occasions, and you are never afraid to express your very strong convictions.

You are inclined to give the casual observer the impression that you are easy-going. As a matter of fact, you take life very seriously, and when things are not going quite right, you worry a lot. You keep your troubles to yourself, however, not even sharing them with your family. It is your good fortune to be able to see a bit of humor in everything, and many a tear has been forced back by a sinner's laugh.

Your homing instinct is very highly developed, and you are loath to spend your leisure hours away from your own fireside. You would be a home-sick traveler, and one who would make odious comparisons with the things abroad and these "back home." You dislike publicity and you never seek the front benches, no matter how deserving you may be to sit there.

that so called light wines and beers are not intoxicating." It added: "The vague suggestion that if and when additional effort fails to produce satisfactory enforcement, the amendment be revised in such a way as to give congress power to regulate or to prohibit the traffic as it may see fit, is not, in our opinion, the way to satisfactory adjustment."

"We believe the people of the United States will insist that there be satisfactory enforcement before there shall be a repeal or revision of the eighteenth amendment. The very purpose of putting the eighteenth amendment in the constitution was to secure eventually an accepted policy, and this will doubtless result in due time from the present legislation."

The Methodist board also suggested that the commission's recommendation for removal of present restrictions on medicinal liquor prescriptions "not be too hastily approved." The statement said "it will not do to say that physicians will not abuse such a privilege," adding that "some of them will."

SEEK PENSION OF $281 FOR INVENTOR
Bill Increasing Remuneration for Paul R. Nelson Introduced

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent
Washington.—A Wisconsin man whose invention will save Uncle Sam $1,000,000 in the next decade, it is estimated, will get $281.25 a month the rest of his life instead of only $50 of Congress passes a bill introduced by Rep. Meritt Hull of Black River Falls.

Master Sergeant Paul R. Nelson of La Crosse, member of the Coast Artillery Corps, invented a simplified conductor cable for submarine mine control. The War Department estimates that his device, which he gave to the government entirely free, will save $1,000,000 in 10 years, or $100,000 a year, in maintenance alone.

He will be retired after 30 years' service in June. If he is retired as a master sergeant, his retired party will be $50 a month. With the approval of the War Department, Rep. Hull introduced a bill to retire him with the rank of captain and pay him captain's retirement pay on the basis of 30 years' service, which is $281.25 a month.

When Sgt. Nelson's device was accepted by the army, Dwight Fliley Davis, then Secretary of War, wrote him a letter of commendation dated Nov. 7, 1915, in which he said, "It is such actions as yours that convince me of the future safety and glory of this country."

So the government is willing to let Sgt. Nelson get $2,775 a year out of that $100,000 he is saving the government, the $2,775 being the annual difference between sergeant's pay and Captain's pay. He had the rank of captain during the World War.

EXTINGUISH FIRE NEAR ARSENAL IN BRITAIN
London.—(AP)—Thousands of troops answered a fire alarm at Woolwich barracks, near the famous arsenal, early today. The alarm was sounded by a bugler who had just sounded retreat, and a shortly thereafter found a fire in the orderly room at the Royal Army Service corps headquarters.

Several fire brigades rushed from Woolwich and other nearby places and subdued the flames after a four of water. Considerable damage was done to soldiers' clothing and tents.

REJECT AMENDMENT TO HOWELL MEASURE

Senate Refuses to Liberalize Clause on Doctors' Prescriptions

Washington.—(AP)—The senate Monday refused to try out in the District of Columbia the recommendations of the Wickersham commission for liberalizing issuance of liquor prescriptions by physicians.

The vote was 45 to 25 to reject an amendment to the Howell bill, offered by Senator Hawes, Democrat, Missouri, to remove the restrictions regulating issuance of prescriptions. The Howell bill would establish a rigid enforcement code for the capital city.

Without opposition, a motion by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, striking from the bill language permitting search and seizures in homes if liquor is delivered to or removed from them was approved.

Sensor Howell, Republican, Nebraska, the author of the bill, agreed to this elimination. This drastic search and seizure provision was opposed also by Attorney General Mitchell.

Howell then had adopted an amendment suggested by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, to permit search and seizures in private dwellings here used for manufacture, for sale, or for storage for sale of liquor. There was no record vote.

Sensor Blaine said this provision would "outlaw wine grape concentrate" from the homes. "I am not much concerned about it," he added, "but I think the senate ought to be informed about this prospective destruction of a great industry approved by the Anti-Saloon league."

Crop Reporter
Since 1888 Mr. Ryan has been furnishing the federal government with crop reports and for the last ten years he has been attending the farmers' course at the state university. His farm, for years, has been regarded as a proving ground for new ideas in farming.

Many years ago Mr. Ryan started to raise pure bred seed, the first one in his town, and many of his grains have been exhibited at grain shows in Wisconsin and other states. In 1911 he won first prize on Mansure barley at the International Barley show in Chicago and he also has won a first prize on his Wisconsin No. 7 corn exhibit.

Along with his interest in modern farming Mr. Ryan has been active for years in the upbuilding of his community and is one of the most influential members of the county board.

Woman Honored

The only woman to receive recognition this year, Mrs. Dunlap, started her career as a school teacher but for the past fifty years, since her marriage, she has lived on a farm near Savoy, Ill. While her husband has been a state senator, Mrs. Dunlap has been active in county affairs, being a director of the local school for 21 years and organizer of the county home bureau. In community work, she was one of the agitators for the first hard roads bond issue in Illinois, and a worker in the fields of women's education, suffrage, and practical education.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

BY HERBERT ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: The mystery of the murder of Anabelle Querling deepens as Police Superintendent Richmond and Jimmie Haswell, amateur detective, probe the tragedy in her Dutch garden. Here the eccentric spinster, watching the sunset, was crushed fatally by a stone statue, toppled with evil intent. Marjorie Blake, niece of Miss Querling, finds her aunt dead a few minutes after she and Dr. Netherton, a neighbor, had talked with her. Hearing Marjorie's alarm, her sister, Evelyn, and the latter's fiancé, Lionel Duckworth, run from the music room and go with her to the garden, joined by Major Gresham, who has been on the ground at the time. Suspicion points toward a disgruntled chauffeur, Green, and a new possibility appears when Constable Roscoe reports having seen a strange car and driver near the estate at about the time the murder. Evelyn tells the superintendent of her aunt's opposition to romance, but adds that she had consented to her marriage to Duckworth at the end of six months.

Chapter 6

WHAT THE LETTERS SAID

H ERE, Superintendent Richmond considered, was a case where it might, in the absence of eye witnesses, prove difficult to bring the guilt home to any individual. It might be possible to show that certain persons could have committed the crime, but the wider the possibility the less the certainty. The letters, Evelyn said, were in Duckworth's possession. Shortly after she left at Richmond's request to summon him, Duckworth came in, looking tired and haggard, and delivered the envelopes, arranged in the order received. Superintendent Richmond and Jimmie scrutinized the letters closely. They were rudely scrawled in printed characters on cheap note paper. The first was the longest and bore a postmark nearly five months old. You are a bad wicked old woman You go to church, but what do you pray for. You ought to be punished. Wait till I get the chance. The second was more definite: I am waiting my chance. It won't be long. You are for death sudden and quick. Aside from smudged writing, the third was similar: Are you ready to die? The end is near. You need others suffer and you shall pay. You beast. The next merely said: Psalms 69. 23. This means you. "What's the reference?" questioned Jimmie. Old Anabelle Querling had penciled it on the back: Let them be blotted out of the book of the living and not be written with the righteous. Constable Roscoe said that he suspected Joe Allen, the gardener dismissed for making love to one of the maids, as the writer of the notes, because Joe had once been in the choir. "He wrote he wasn't," admitted the constable. "I could have done it last week, wicked woman. I won't wait much longer. That was the next letter, and the others continued in the same vein. Richmond said treating the finger prints of the letters had been useless, since many persons had handled them. At this point Duckworth suggested possibly the letters had not all been written by the same person. "Doesn't help us much," muttered Richmond. "When writing is discussed there are often differences. Then he turned to Duckworth and asked him for particulars about himself. "She did not altogether like it," was Duckworth's frank reply to the superintendent's question concerning Miss Querling's view of her niece's engagement to him. "But I think she was crying more used to it." He said it on the night of the tragedy he had been in the room with Evelyn singing, remaining there until Marjorie had come to tell of her aunt's death. "You didn't see any one in the garden at any time?" the superintendent asked. "Well, as a matter of fact, I went to pull the curtains," he pointed to the windows - "and I noticed a woman hurrying across the pathway you can just see. While I can't describe her well, she was of moderate height and wore a long dark coat or macintosh. I couldn't see her face, as she was going the other way. Of course, I didn't take particular notice. "It was still quite light," the superintendent asked, and noting Duckworth's nod, continued, "then why did you pull the curtain?" "Well," Duckworth smiled, "I was here with Miss Blake and we did not particularly want to be opposite those windows. Besides it was hardly light enough for her to see the music." No one suggested who the woman might have been, and interest turned at once to Major Gresham, announced by the maid, who said that he called at the suggestion of the sisters. The major, short, slightly bow-legged, florid and frowning, entered pompously. "Morning, Richmond," he began. "Have you got the rights of it?" "I understand that you were in the garden last night." I should like to know what you can tell me about it, when you came and what you were doing," Richmond asked. The major's wrath flamed up at what he took to be the insinuations in the question. "What can I tell you?" he exclaimed indignantly, and then, after Richmond explained his purpose of clearing up the mystery, he said, "Of course, I'll help you. That's what I came for. What can I do for you?" But his answer to Richmond's questions were not in keeping with this quieter mood. He blustered and protested that the questions were impertinent. As to the time he left his home to go across the links to the Querling estate through the gate from the links - "Call it 8:45, but what's the good of asking such questions like that?" "When you went through the gardens to the lawn," persisted Richmond, did you see anyone about?" "Blight it, no! - I'd have said so." "It might take you 20 to 25 minutes to get from your house across the links to this garden. That would make it ten past nine on your arrival. Now, what did you do when you got there?" "Nothing - I came to see Miss Querling and her niece meet me and said there had been an accident." "That was later," Richmond's glance was hard. "You arrived at 10 or 15 minutes after nine. You say you called to see Miss Querling. If you did not go to her directly you arrived - what were you doing from the time you arrived until you were seen by Marjorie in the garden at about 9:30?" "What do you mean?" "Just what I say. On your own showing, you arrived in the garden at ten minutes past nine and you were there until half past nine. Miss Querling was discovered dead." $15,000 FOR 2 CENTS

Fremont, Neb. - Irvin Bucklin recently wrote the U. S. Department of the Interior at Washington for information as to what land was available in his section for home-sweeping. He received a parcel right in the heart of the wheat-raising section. As soon as he had built a shack on the land, the sheriff went down to order him off. Bucklin showed his paper, however, and the sheriff was surprised. For a post-ace stamp, Bucklin had received a $15,000 stamp of land. It was estimated.

SCHMIEGE PUTS FORTH BILL ON CHAIN BANKING

Also Sponsors Measure Asking Aid of Congress to Check Banks

BY EWALD L. ALMIEN

Madison—(AP)—With the state legislature embarking on its fourth week, no less than four assemblymen have already undertaken to champion legislation curbing chain banks and stores.

The chain bank and store question was one of the major planks in Gov. LaFollette's platform and legislation carrying out campaign promises in this direction is being watched with interest. Since his inauguration the governor has not dwelled on the chain question but he has announced that it will be treated in a special message to the legislature.

Assemblyman Charles Budlong, Marinette, got the jump on his colleagues by first bringing the assembly's attention to legislation concerning chain stores. Having no bill to offer for a solution of the problem, Assemblyman Budlong introduced a resolution asking the attorney general to "make a careful study of the possibilities for taxing or licensing chain stores so as to make them bear their fair share of the taxes of this state and to make a report thereon at the earliest date possible with a draft of a bill which he believed constitutional to carry out this purpose."

The Budlong resolution calls attention to court decisions which have demonstrated that it is difficult to draft constitutional measures curbing chain stores. Former Gov. Walter Kohler vetoed a chain store bill in 1929 on the ground that it was unconstitutional.

Assemblyman Oscar Schmiede, Appleton, was the first legislator to come through with a bill intended to curb chain banking. His bill provides that no corporation "may subscribe for, take, own or hold more than 10 per cent of the capital stock of any bank or trust company" and that any corporation holding more than 10 per cent of such stock shall dispose of the excess holdings by Jan. 1, 1932. Going a step further, the bill would prohibit any corporation owning more than 10 per cent of the stock of any state and national bank from being a depository for any public funds.

Assemblyman Schmiede also has a resolution before the lower house which memorializes Congress to enact legislation to check the formation of national chains of banks.

The resolution asked in the national banking law to prevent the ownership of national banks by holding companies.

Store Fee Proposed
A fee of $100,000 on any company which operates more than five stores in the state is Assemblyman Carl J. Maun's plan for curbing chain stores. The Fond du Lac assemblyman succeeded in having adopted a resolution asking the attorney general for an opinion as to the constitutionality of a proposed law to carry such a fee.

Assemblyman John W. Eber, Milwaukee, former speaker of the assembly, has submitted a bill which he believes is not only constitutional but which will effectively throttle the extension of chain marketing units in Wisconsin.

The drastic bill calls for a tax on all retail stores but it is so designed that the small independent merchant would pay a negligible fee while the chain store owner would pay an annual tax of $1,000 on a gross annual business of $100,000. By including all retail stores under a tax, the bill will eliminate the features of other bills which failed because they sought to tax only chain stores.

The Eber bill calls for an excise tax of one-twentieth of one per cent on gross sales of $100,000 or less. On gross sales between $100,000 and $500,000 the tax would be two-twentieths of one per cent. For each successive gross sale of $100,000 the tax would jump from five-twentieths to eight, eleven, fourteen and seventeen twentieths of one per cent until it reached one per cent on the excess of gross sales over $1,000,000.

Chain stores are effectively taxed by a provision of the bill which says that chain systems shall pay excise taxes in their sales on the basis of "the entire gross sale of all of the stores in this state."

The bill gives the tax commission authority to collect the tax and provides that 15 per cent of the taxes collected shall be retained by the state and 20 per cent distributed to counties. Sixty-five per cent would be returned to the towns, cities and villages in which the stores are located.

Thus far all anti-chain resolutions or bills have come from the assembly. The senate has not yet entered the chain controversy.

agencies would be organized to do the job and he thought that if it was going to be done at all the banks were the "natural agencies" and were well equipped to handle call loans.

The questions and answers brought out the fact that Mr. Mitchell believed that the rediscount rate might have been advanced sharply during 1929 in order to cut down the volume of collateral loans. He said that this was the view of the Federal Reserve bank of New York at the time and that there were differences of opinion between the directors of the Federal Reserve bank of New York and of the Federal Reserve board in Washington.

"I believe we are right about it," he said, "but we couldn't prove it." The discussion led to the possibility of strengthening the Federal Reserve act so as to prevent corporations from engaging in the business of lending money on an extensive

Niagara Falls Will Vanish As Rocks Crumble Up, Scientists Point Out

Scientists say Niagara Falls is doomed, by the downhill contour of its caprock bed, eventually to become rapids. Left shows how falls undercut soft rock to break off the caprock brink, and map at right shows how falls have shifted backward. Dotted line at top marks the latest retreat of the caprock.

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

(Associated Press Science Editor)

Ithaca, N. Y., (AP)—The self-destruction of Niagara Falls already is written in its rocks.

They slope the wrong way, between the Falls and Buffalo, dipping back from the brink downward instead of upward.

When a section of the cap rock breaks off, as did the big V on the American falls, the new brink, formed a step behind, is also a fraction of a step lower. This, geologists say, means finally turning the falls into rapids.

Part of the proof of this prediction goes back 25,000 years in evidence that the Falls at that time stood at Lewiston, seven miles below their present position. They have cut their way up-river since, but 25,000 years is too long a period to cause much concern.

However, proof of a more immediate nature, promising disturbingly rapid changes in the present, is on file in the records of Dr. H. Ries, head of the department of geology at Cornell university.

These records cover the 161 years ending in 1925. They show that the falls in that time receded 820 feet, nearly one-sixth of a mile. They show also that the average annual rate of cutting back has been more than five feet. From 1905 to 1925 the recession was 110 feet, just under six feet a year.

This rapid retreat is on the Canadian side, in the Horseshoe, where the bulk of Niagara runs. Why continuation of the cutting means a future rapids instead of a mere moving backward of the Falls as in the past, is explained by another geologist, Dr. Chester A. Reeds of the American Museum of Natural History.

The cap rock is at fault. This is the hard stuff that forms the brink. It is fairly thin compared with the great height of the Falls, and it slopes slightly downhill backward from the present brink.

On top of this cap rock, upstream, the river bed is upon softer rock, which is expected to wear down into rapids as the cap rock retreats deeper and deeper with the recession. It is estimated that four of five miles of further recession will bring the rapids into existence.

Can man-made efforts prevent the erosion? Ries and Reeds made no answer to this question. The means are not now in sight.

"You are right," commented Mr. Glass, "and I think there might well be such a law." The Virginia senator asked Mr. Mitchell if it was true that some corporations had issued stock to the public and used the surplus funds for the very purpose of lending money in the call money market, which during 1929 yielded such high rates of return. The New York banker said that he did not know of a single instance of that kind. Senator Glass said that it was the information of his committee that there were a number of such specific instances.

Mr. Mitchell made it clear that he believed that in the matter of call loans "what was happening in the investment market had become such a vital part of the whole credit picture that it was difficult to eliminate 'loans for the account of others' from consideration in examining the effectiveness of Federal Reserve operations, and that he thought, in some way all the factors in the use of credit should be fully appraised in the making of policies."

Mr. Mitchell did feel, however, that any academic consideration of credit conditions must necessarily include all uses of credit whether in the field of collateral loans or in the channels of industry and commerce. The senate committee is to continue its investigations throughout the next session of congress with a view to making a report next year. He said it was possible on changes in the Federal Reserve act with the idea of preventing a recurrence of the inflation which brought on the panic of 1929.

Commission Traces Money Paid To Dee Supply Co.

The state tax commission has announced that money paid by the city of Racine to the William Dee Supply company for manhole and catch-basin castings has been reported annually for the last five years as income of the Armstrong Foundry company. Mayor William Armstrong of Racine is president of the foundry company.

An investigation was started by the tax commission after Barney Rieser, a former alderman, sought to join the city of Racine from paying any more money to the Dee company, charging that it was merely a fictitious name to cover deals between the city and the Armstrong foundry.

The commission's files were searched and no income tax returns from the William Dee Supply Co. were found. An auditor then was sent to Racine to find out why no returns had been filed. He reported to the commission Saturday that although the city was billed by the William Dee Supply Co. for goods purchased, the payments received had been entered on the books of the Armstrong Foundry Co., and included in its income tax returns.

The commission announced that in view of the fact that the income had been reported for tax purposes, it had no further interest in the Racine case.

Soon after the injunctive action was started by Mr. Rieser an affidavit was filed in municipal court in which Mrs. Belle Armstrong, California, an aunt of the mayor, swore that she operated as a sole trader under the name of the William Dee Supply Co., buying from the Armstrong foundry and selling to the city and retaining all the profits. She said that she had been left this business by her husband, the late John Armstrong, in his will.

Subsequently Mr. Rieser's attorneys filed affidavits by the deputy register in probate and the register of deeds, that Mrs. Armstrong had testified in the probate of her husband's estate that his only personal property was stock of the Armstrong Foundry Co., and one by the register of deeds that no such trading name as the William Dee Supply Co. had been recorded in accordance with the law.

As a sequel to the injunctive action Mr. Rieser filed suit last week against Mayor Armstrong and the Armstrong Foundry Co., seeking to force them to refund to the city more than $11,000 which the city had paid to the William Dee Supply Co., since 1925.

This suit not only repeated the charge that the Dee company was a fictitious name to cover the Armstrong deals with the city, but charged also that a William Dee Co. was engaged in the foundry business in Chicago and that a similar name was chosen by Mayor Armstrong and the Armstrong company in order to mislead the taxpayers of Racine.

COUNCIL OUTLINES MAJOR OBJECTIVES FOR COMING YEAR

Will Develop Three Units of Scouting—Cubs, Sea and Boy Scouts

Among the major objectives of the valley council of boy scouts for the year, as outlined at the annual council meeting at Knights of Pythias hall last week, will be the organization and development of a Cub patrol for youngsters under scouting age, and Sea scouting for boys interested in boating.

The council will attempt to organize three Cub "packs" with 60 members, and two sea scout patrols of 20 scouts.

It also will endeavor to increase the boy scout unit from 25 to 25 troops, with a membership of 600 boys.

During 1931 the council will try to raise by popular subscription $10,275 for maintenance and operation of the scouting movement in this city.

Preliminary plans are now underway to provide the following leadership training opportunities: One standard course, one first aid course, a specialization course, a patrol leaders conference, and a course for Cub and Sea scout leaders.

In regard to court of honor and advancement an effort is to be made to revise the troop court of honor plan and to make it more effective within the sponsoring institution.

Emphasis Merit Work

Major emphasis is to be placed on development in staff of merit badge counselors in every community and hold meetings for training purposes. Advancements during the year, which will end on Dec. 31, 1931, will make the membership proportions as follows: Tenderfoot scouts, 40 per cent; second class, 39 per cent, and first class, 30 per cent.

A strenuous civil service program also will be adopted. It will include services such as helping Rotarians at their district convention at Neenah and Menasha, Kiwanis convention in this city, and state band tournament at Menasha.

An enrollment of 250 scouts at summer camps is anticipated. An effort will be made to develop Camp Chicagami on Lake Winnebago as a short term camp. As a special feature tree planting and conservation programs will be adopted for use at the Northwoods camp on Florence lake in Langlade co. The council will attempt to operate a winter camp at Chicagami for older scouts and draw up a five year development plan for summer camps.

Plans are to be formulated to make it possible for every scout to receive official scout publications, and the council is to cooperate with the public library board in maintaining good reading for members of troops.

A corps of deputy commissioners will be established in each community to maintain a more active contact between each troop and scout headquarters through monthly visits, occasional inspections, meetings with troop committees and reports to headquarters.

Special activities to be continued are: Drum and bugle corps sponsored by Lions club, anniversary week rally and roundup of former scouts, annual court of honor in February, Camp-O-Ral for all troops, merit badge exposition next fall, send Eagle scouts to state trail building camp, and carry on only such council activities as will strengthen individual troop consciousness and effectiveness.

WIDE VARIETY OF NAMES PICKED FOR DOGS IN APPLETON

It may be just an ordinary mongrel on the street, but at home he's Lindy, Gene Tunney, Amos and Andy, or maybe just plain Spot or Patsy. The array of dog registrations in the dog tax book—the city treasurer's office—is a varied one, ranging from the strange appendage "Lex-V-Pop" to the descriptive name "Galloping Malden," and from "Hoot-Mon" to "Hong Yen," "Rough House Rosie" and "Cappy Ricks."

Most of the 405 dogs bearing new license tags were baptized with essentially canine names—Queen, Buddy, Rex, Omar, Shoofer, Flipp, Dlek, Muggins, Teddy, Shep, Tex, Sparky, Fal, Boos, Sport, Prince, Rex, Tex, Duke, Woodie, Skipper, Fluffy, Fritz, Dash, Spkie, Lady, Kelley, Laddie, Patsy, Beau, Curly, Toodles, and Spooks—but many answer to rather unusual calls. Some of the more elaborately titled ones are Kahro, Blue Tick, Bozo, Zev, Deuce, Amos and Andy, Jiggs and Maggie, Pam, Mush, Negro Boy, Skee, Wow, Muzia and Mitzie, Blikkers, Money, Toy, Spunk, Kernel, Rowdy, and Saller.

The Wisconsin senators failed to keep the Hull amendment in the army supply bill because of opposition of the war department itself and of the fight of senators from cotton, fish, and cattle states against the better amendment.

The senate committee struck the Hull amendment out of that bill and the senate upheld the committee, throwing the question into conference where Wisconsin congressmen are seeking to have it restored.

The senate committee reversed itself this time, leaving the Hull amendment untouched, probably because the veterans' administration did not oppose it as the war department did.

The old soldiers' homes have been using a half million pounds of oleomargarine a year, the eastern branch in Maine not using a pound of butter one year while it was under war department administration but the veterans' hospitals have been using butter exclusively except for cooking.

The Wisconsin senators are fighting to uphold the committee.

Washington—The first bout in the butter battle in connection with appropriations for veterans' hospitals and old soldiers' homes was won by the butter bloc in the senate, led by the Wisconsin senators, Robert M. La Follette Jr., and John J. Blaine.

The committee on appropriations Monday afternoon reported to the senate the independent offices appropriations bill without a striking out the Hull amendment prohibiting use of veterans' administration funds for purchase of oleomargarine for table use.

The house of representatives amended the bill on the floor to include this prohibition, the movement for the measure having been started by representative Merlino Hull of Black River Falls.

TEST AIR RATIONS FOR NAVY AIRMEN

Washington—Tests of dehydrated foods as possible emergency rations for Navy and Marine Corps aviators will be conducted in the near future, according to the Department of the Navy.

Four combinations are now being considered. Each of these four contains some form of sweet chocolate and some form of cracker or bread. Other parts of the various rations are cheese, meat, powdered milk, or pemmican. One quart of fresh water is included in each combination, but if weight permits, this amount should be increased to a gallon, it is said.

It has been found that satisfactory emergency rations should contain 3,000 calories of non-thirst-producing foods, consisting of standard brands, and possessing qualities of lightness, compactness, durability and portability.

WOMAN TO STUDY SOUTH SEA LIFE AS PEARL DIVER

Hollywood—(AP)—Helen Ludiham aspires to be the first woman diver seriously to study sea life and color under water. She is preparing for an adventure off the shores of Tahiti—and will sail soon after New Year's with a party led by Victor Berge, master diver who has spent years in South Sea waters. The background for Miss Ludiham's adventurous spirit perhaps lies in those of her forefathers. Her maternal grandfather was Maj. Gen. William Pile, governor of New Mexico during its pioneer days. Her father was a Shakespearean actor. Experience as a pearl hunter, with an accomplished peering crew, is one of the thrills awaiting her. She will spend six months with the expedition, herself diving in hidden lagoons along palm fringed coral strands, wearing a diving helmet. While in Tahiti she will live in a native grass hut.

KAUKAUNA MEETS BRILLION QUINT

Coach Little's Team Seeks Revenge for Defeat Last Year

Kaukauna—Coach Paul E. Little's Kaukauna high school basketball team will meet Brillion high school in a non-conference game Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium. Parents of players on the local squad have been invited to attend.

The two teams fought a hard game last year at Brillion, the locals losing as a result of fouls. The game also eliminated Little's squad from the district tournament last season and the team will be out to avenge that defeat.

Not much is known of Brillion, though they have the reputation of always putting a strong team on the basketball court. Coach Little put the boys through a light practice Monday night and smoothed out the wrinkles in the Kaw defense. The game probably will be a sort of elimination game for the district tournament, although it has not been recognized as such officially.

The game will be a sort of a warm-up process for the Kaws, who trek over to Shawano Friday to meet the crack red and black quintet which handed a neat trouncing to New London last Friday. Most of the squad will see action in the game. A preliminary game will be played at 7:15, with the main game starting at 8:15.

Club No. 15 of St. Mary's Catholic church will hold a card party and dance at the annex Tuesday evening, Feb. 10. The public is invited.

A group of relatives surprised John Gerhart on his birthday Sunday evening at his home. Cards were played and a lunch served. Prizes were won by Mrs. Norman Gerhart, Mrs. James Gerhart of Appleton, J. Gerhart and Mike Gerhart.

The Altar society of St. Mary's Catholic church met Monday evening in the annex. Following the business meeting lunch was served and cards were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. M. Martin and Mrs. Rickard in bridge. Mrs. Frank Walsh and Mrs. J. Lehner in schafkopf and Mrs. N. Haupt and Mrs. Joseph Rank in five hundred.

It was decided to hold regular meetings at 7:30 in the evening of the first Monday of each month at the annex. Plans were made for a public card party at the annex Tuesday evening, Feb. 17.

GROUND HOG WRONG TOO MANY TIMES, JOHN LAWE HOLDS

Kaukauna—Whether the ground hog saw his shadow on Monday makes little difference to John Lawe, Kaukauna's oldest resident. He puts little faith in the popular superstition that if the ground hog sees his shadow on Feb. 2 six more weeks of winter are assured. The ground hog has been wrong on too many occasions, he points out.

AUXILIARY PICKS ROLES FOR COMEDY

"Aunt Lucia" to Be Presented at School Auditorium Feb. 12, 13

Kaukauna—With a cast of 125 persons, "Aunt Lucia," a home talent musical comedy, will be presented at the high school auditorium Thursday and Friday, Feb. 12 and 13, under auspices of the American Legion auxiliary. It will be the first entertainment of this nature to be given in Kaukauna in several years. Characters have been selected and rehearsals started. Chorus members will be named Wednesday and Thursday. The play is being directed by Miss Lucille Droege of Green Bay.

Seventeen characters take part in the play. There also will be an Aunt Lucia's glee club, a men's chorus of college flappers, and a special baby pageant composed of children between the ages of five to seven years and a girls' chorus.

The part of Aunt Lucia, around which the plot is woven, is characterized by Joseph Bayoregon. He is forced by unusual circumstances to take the part of the Aunt and is eagerly sought after by fortune hunters in the persons of Lloyd Deras as Prof. Gaddis, Ed Rennieke, as a big butter and egg man, and Mark Griffiths as Collins. Aunt Lucia unwittingly hastens the progress of the romance of Prof. Gaddis, but in a different way than he expects.

Two college boys who try unsuccessfully to free the faked Aunt Lucia from her predicament are played by Donald Kanney and John Taylor. Their sweethearts are Miss Joyce Petersen and Miss Edna Sager. Jerry, the faked Aunt Lucia, by his actions also gets in trouble with his best girl, played by Miss Laura Zwick.

Other members of the cast are Dean Howard, played by Miss Edna Esler, who for 30 years was the sweetheart of Prof. Gaddis; Henry Oim as the college president; Mrs. J. P. McCain, the president's wife; Elmer Grobe, glee club president; and two freshmen, Norbert Gerend and Lawrence Kroll.

Action is fast throughout the three acts and draws to an exciting climax. The lines are snappy and the parts are taken by persons well versed in amateur dramatics. Most of the players are known by their successful roles in productions given by the high school and other local organizations in the last seven years.

WRITER POINTS OUT FOLLY OF CHANGING FARM CASH CROPS

Practice Last Year Resulted in Surplus of Cabbage, Farmers Reminded

BY W. F. WINSEY

Last spring and two years ago when farmers began shifting from raising potatoes as a cash crop to raising cabbage, the writer protested, advising the potato growers to continue their old practice for the reason that one cash crop pays as well as another in the long run. A general shifting overstocks the markets and reduces the prices of one commodity or causes a shortage and increases prices of the other.

Disregarding the advice, the potato growers in this section of the state shifted almost in a body to cabbage, and the experienced cabbage growers, seeing the army of recruits invading their preserves, doubled their acreage of cabbage to head off the potato growers.

The result of this shifting and doubling the acreage of cabbage was that only 50 per cent of the cabbage planted was harvested and 75 per cent of that harvested brought the grower not more than $4 per ton. The price of potatoes has been ranging since the harvest up to the present time from 90 cents per hundred pounds to $1.50. Many of the growers who have stored cabbage wish now that they could convert their cabbage into potatoes.

Instead of plunging into raising a large acreage of potatoes or cabbage the circumspect beginner raises some cabbage, some potatoes, some running peas, some canning beans, some table beans, some cucumbers, and some carrots, as cash crops. If this plan is adopted the failure of one of those cash crops does not spell disaster but it is balanced by the profits of the other crops.

As a general rule the shifting from one cash to what we have learned how to grow to another that we know nothing about is a reckless and often an expensive practice.

The above suggestion apply directly to the raising of chickens and producing eggs for the market. If a farm woman or a farmer is equipped and has made a farm flock pay in the past, they will probably make a mistake if they change from eggs and chickens this spring to some other cash crop on account of the low prices of poultry and eggs. The poultry industry is as reliable as any other farm activity and often pays better in winter than dairying under good management.

$43,000 POURED INTO KAUKAUNA TREASURY

Kaukauna—Money collected in taxes up to Monday amounted to $43,000, according to Joseph H. Dietz, city treasurer. Tax payers have until March 1 to pay their taxes as a result of the time extension granted by the city council. A 2 per cent penalty will be charged after that time.

At Bonus Hearing

Hines, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, told the Senate Finance Committee. He declined to make any recommendations for or against the plan when, as pictured above, he appeared as a witness at the hearing in Washington.

STATE'S OLD TREES CHIEFLY HEMLOCKS

Discovery Is Made Through Land Economic Inventory in Wisconsin

Madison — Nearly all Wisconsin's oldest trees are hemlock and rate as among the slowest growing trees in the forest, according to William Morris, assistant in the land economic inventory of the division of fairs and state development of the department of agriculture and markets. One hemlock known thus far as the oldest tree in the inventory which has covered 2,300,000 acres, sprouted from a seed nearly four centuries ago.

Although Mr. Morris states the oldest hemlock was 64 years old and 19 feet high at the time the Pilgrims reached America, when cut last summer, it was only 79 feet tall and 22 inches in diameter. A considerable number of hemlocks in the state are more than three centuries old, but their rate of growth is comparatively slow compared to that of white spruce or white pine which will produce their first merchantable crop in 25 to 30 years under favorable conditions.

While Norway pine reaches its peak growth at 75 years, nearly all of Wisconsin's trees die and are replaced by other trees when they pass the century and a quarter mark. White pine thrives on beyond the century and even the two century mark, according to Mr. Morris, the largest specimen of white pine found by the inventory being 48 inches in diameter.

Other large trees included a poplar or quaking aspen which was growing in splendid moist loamy soil
